Household savings on rebound

Robust domestic savings to drive economic growth, says RBI deputy governor Michael Patra

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @Mumbai

AFTER sharply declining during the pandemic, India's household savings are rebounding based on rising income levels, according to the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

Speaking at an event in Mumbai on Tuesday, RBI deputy governor Michael Debabrata Patra said that the rebound process has already begun, noting that households' financial assets have increased from 10.6% of GDP during 2011-17 to 11.5% during 2017-23. And there is room to grow further because the level was 15% of GDP during the early 2000s till the global financial crisis.

Household savings are the portion of income that is not spent on consumption and set aside for future use; these are usually deposited in banks or invested in other financial instruments. Because of their sheer size, household funds are considered a major driver of long- term economic growth.

Explaining the reasons for the fall in the domestic savings level of late, Patra noted that the net household savings have halved, hitting a five-year low of 5.2% of GDP in fiscal 2024, but he attributed this to 'behavioural changes' during the pandemic, driven by shifts from financial assets to physical assets such as property.

According to Patra, that phase is over and households are now rebuilding their financial assets.

"Going forward, boosted by rising incomes, households will likely build back their financial assets," Patra said while addressing a finance summit organised by the Confederation of Indian Industry here on Tuesday.

Concurrently, households' physical savings have also risen in post-pandemic years to over 12% of GDP. These can rise further—these had reached 16% of GDP in 2010-11. Households are expected to remain the top net lenders to the rest of the economy in the coming decades, he said.

RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das had earlier raised concerns over more and more household savings going into financial instruments such as mutual funds and stocks, saying this had led to banks facing a deposit drought.

Panel to be formed to oversee old cases: Dr G

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Siddaramaiah-led Congress government has decided to constitute a committee to review important cases, including the Bitcoin scam, alleged irregularities while managing Covid and misappropriation of funds in the Maharshi ST Development Corporation.

Home Minister G Parameshwara said here on Tuesday that these cases are being investigated by special investigation teams (SITs) and Criminal Investigation Department (CID) and the investigations are at various stages of completion. "I am also monitoring these cases. To review them, we will constitute a committee," he said.

The Bitcoin case is about withdrawal of money from government coffers that surfaced in 2017, the Covid scandal is to do with alleged irregularities in purchasing medical equipment and masks during Covid and the Valmiki corporation scam is about illegal siphoning off money from the ST corporation to private accounts in Telangana.

On cases related to the allotment of land to the Siddarth Vihar Trust, managed by AICC president Mallikarjuna Kharge and family, Parameshwara said the issue is before Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot and he has to take a decision.

"Thousands of people submit memorandums to the governor and the truth comes out only after verifying these petitions. There should be no blame game till the truth comes out," he added.

On meeting Lok Sabha opposition leader Rahul Gandhi in New Delhi, Parameshwara said when party members visit Delhi, it is natural for them to meet party leaders. "PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi too met party leaders. Each one of us is given a different task. One need not give any political angle to such meetings. I was told to regulate negative comments on the party and Gandhi family on social media," he said.

Dengue an epidemic now in K'taka, violators to be fined

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Tuesday declared dengue fever an 'epidemic' across the state. For an effective control of dengue and other vector-borne diseases, the government has amended the Karnataka Epidemic Diseases Regulations, 2020, introducing strict measures.

The notification means the dengue outbreak has reached a level that requires urgent and coordinated public health measures to control its spread and impact.

The new regulations require every owner, occupier, builder or person of any land, building, water tank, park, playground or any other place to prevent mosquito breeding. They should ensure that water storage containers, sumps or overhead tanks are covered, solid waste is disposed of to prevent water accumulation, and avoid storing empty vessels, cans, unused tires or any items that collect water.

The BBMP chief commissioner in Bengaluru and DC's in other districts have been authorised to inspect premises, issue notices and enforce compliance. Owners are required to take immediate measures to eliminate mosquito breeding spots. If a person fails to act, the authorities can take action and recover the cost from the defaulter.

Non-compliance will attract penalties. For households, the fine is Rs 400 in urban areas and Rs 200 in rural areas. Commercial spaces will face fines of Rs 1,000 in urban areas and Rs 500 in rural parts. Construction sites and vacant plots will be fined Rs 2,000 in urban areas and Rs 1,000 in rural areas. For repeat offences, an extra 50% of the total amount will be fined for each week of violation.

KOLKATA'S STUNNING TAHRIR SQUARE MOMENT

MONIDEEPA BANERJIE
Veteran journalist

IT was Kolkata's own Tahrir Square moment, its own Shahbagh. Actually, let me revise that. I watched Tahrir Square very closely on TV. I saw Shahbagh with my own eyes, having had the opportunity to report on that movement in Dhaka. But Kolkata today is perhaps even more extraordinary. All of Kolkata today became the hallowed ground of the most astonishing people's protest ever. In the 77 years of its Independence, I dare say India has not seen anything like it.

With a grating, metallic screech, the nine-foot-high metal barricades were dragged aside this afternoon by policemen on the narrow BB Ganguly Street. The road leads to Lalbazar, the Kolkata Police headquarters.

Rising over the cacophony were the strains of We Shall Overcome, the American civil rights song, and the Bengali anthem of protest, Kazi Nazrul Islam's Karar Oi Louho Kopat Bhang — break down the iron gates of prison. The singers, all junior doctors who had been camping at the location through rain, shine and a hot muggy night for last 22 hours, gathered to demand justice for their colleague, raped and murdered in their hospital while she was on duty on the night of August 9.

In the hands of the junior doctors who marched slowly forward singing those songs, meaning every word in those powerful lyrics, were rajanigandhar malas — garlands of tuberose speckled with red roses. One doctor held aloft what must be the movement's icon: a plastic replica of the human spine.

These doctors have demonstrated over the last 24 days that their vertebral column is in place. Their unique protest exhorted everyone to keep theirs upright and straight. Especially the police.

Just before heading into Lalbazar, the doctors' delegation broke into a song again, signing off with Jana Gana Mana. Behind them, other doctors standing in a series of human chains joined in. Everyone stood still. Time stood still.

After the meeting with the commissioner of Kolkata Police, the doctors said they were not satisfied with officer's responses but they would end their sit-in demo on BB Ganguly Street. However, their protests would continue in other forms. One night this week, the junior doctors called for a voluntary blackout in every home in Kolkata for 60 minutes, with only candles to be lit through the dark hour.

Kolkata has responded magnificently. All of Tuesday, thousands of people stood holding hands all along the 16 km stretch of the arterial Eastern Metropolitan Bypass road that swings around the city. No blocking traffic, no political flags, only banners and posters demanding justice for the RG Kar victim and an occasional burst of slogans, mostly Justice for RG Kar. In the human chain were doctors, nurses, students and scores of ordinary folk, moved by the movement for justice and outraged by the way the state has handled both.

Collectively, Kolkata is today a tsunami of righteous anger. An anger it has chosen to express with the red rose.

Mahatma Gandhi would have approved. P12

Nine more Maoists killed in Chhattisgarh

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

NINE Maoists, including six women cadre, were gunned down in an encounter with the security forces at the Purangel-Andri hilly terrain along the inter-district border of Dantewada and Bijapur in south Chhattisgarh on Tuesday.

Acting on specific intelligence inputs about the presence of Maoists belonging to the West Bastar Division committee and Peoples' Liberation Guerrilla Army company number 2 in the area, a joint team comprising personnel from District Reserve Guards, Bastar Fighters and the Central Reserve Police Force launched a search operation.

"Exchange of fire ensued around 10.30 am between the security forces and the Maoists. Nine bodies of armed Maoists in uniform, including six women, along with weapons have been recovered," said Sunderraj P, Bastar inspector general of police.

A large quantity of weapons, including self loading rifle, 303 rifle, 315 bore rifle, BGL launchers, huge explosives besides other items of the Maoists were recovered.

"The forces engaged in the operation are safe. The recovered bodies are yet to be identified. Since there is a possibility of the presence of several other dead or injured Maoists in and around the encounter site, additional reinforcement has been sent to the area," said Gaurav Rai, Dantewada district police chief.

Car falls off flyover; 1 killed, 4 hurt

Advice from Neeraj, enduring back pain, Sumit wins gold

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

IT is as if winning gold has become a habit for Sumit Antil. The back pain that had been afflicting him for the last one-and-a-half year vanished. He was focussed on the job in hand — retaining gold at the Paris Paralympics. And he did it in style when he threw the javelin to 70.59 m — a new Paralympics record. It had not been easy. During a virtual interaction, he revealed that he felt more pressure in Paris than in Tokyo. Perhaps, it's the burden of expectations on Monday in his F46 event.

There are quite a few things that separate Sumit from the rest. He is one of those para-athletes who previously competed against able-bodied athletes. One among the competitors was Neeraj Chopra, the Olympic silver-medallist. During the interaction he revealed that he keeps speaking with Neeraj and the champion javelin thrower had given him an advice or two before the Paralympics. He said that he has been in touch with Neeraj but before the Parlympics he did not speak to him directly but through his manager. "I got a message from Neeraj bhai through someone and he told me that the atmosphere (in Paris) is good," said Sumit. He also asked him to not try anything new. "I just took his advice and it was a really good experience."

To be under pressure is normal at such a big stage and we try not to get stressed due to pressure. I read very less book but I do meditation, watch movies — Sumit Antil

Sumit also spoke about how he created a para world record while competing against able-bodied athletes in Patiala during a Grand Prix event in 2021. "I threw some 66.43 m and that time it was a record. I wanted to find out how it feels to compete with able-bodied athletes."

With gold secured, he has set sights on a three-peat at the LA Paralympics as his next target. But crossing 80 m too would be one of his dreams. Sumit is the second para athlete after shooter Avani Lekhara to defend their title. Lekhara on Tuesday finished fifth in 50m 3P. P17

India's first combat unmanned aircraft FWD 200B touches the sky

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BENGALURU-based unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) and component private manufacturing company, Flying Wedge Defence and Aerospace (FWDA), on Tuesday announced its successful maiden flight of India's first indigenous unmanned bomber aircraft, the FWD 200B, marking a milestone in the country's defence sector.

The UAV is classified as a Medium Altitude (15000 ft), Long Endurance (MALE) Unmanned Combat Aerial Vehicle (UCAV). The FWD 200B is equipped with optical payloads for surveillance and missile-like weapons for air strikes and bombing.

FWD 200B features a wingspan of 5 meters (16.4 feet) and a length of 3.5 meters (12.1 feet), making it compact yet powerful. Despite its size, the aircraft has a maximum take-off weight of 102 kg and can carry a payload capacity of 30 kg, making it capable of conducting significant missions with precision.

Operating at a cruise altitude of 12,000 feet and reaching an absolute ceiling of 15,000 feet, the FWD 200B can fly at a cruise speed of 152 km/h, with a maximum speed of 250 km/h. Its operational versatility is further highlighted by its runway requirement of just 300 meters, allowing it to operate from shorter airstrips.

With an endurance of 7 hours and a range of 800 km, the FWD 200B ensures extended mission capabilities, providing substantial coverage without the need for frequent refueling or landing.

The FWS 200B was tested at a classified location, and the first flight is touted as the fulfillment of India's long-awaited dream of producing a combat UAV domestically right from the subsystems.

Suhas Tejaskanda, Founder & CEO of FWDA, told reporters, "India is the world's largest importer of arms in the last five years, and has often paid up to ten times the cost for military technology from countries like the US and Israel. The successful flight of the FWD 200B is not just an achievement for our company, but a victory for the entire nation."

International deals on hold

Turkey's denial of the Bayraktar UAV to India and the US Predator deal on hold for two years, the indigenous aircraft has come as a significant development.

The aircraft's aerodynamics design, airframe, propulsion systems, controls systems, and electronics are all made indigenously at FWDA's 12,000 sq.ft manufacturing facility at Electronic City in Bengaluru.

"This landmark achievement follows years of persistent efforts to develop a combat UAV indigenously, overcoming challenges which had previously hindered similar initiatives by leading defence agencies," Tejaskanda added.

KIA connects to 100th city, targets 400L passengers this year

Eyes serving 850L pax a year in next decade

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE IndiGo flight that departed from Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) to Jabalpur airport in Madhya Pradesh on September 1, marked a unique milestone for Bengaluru airport – it was the 100th passenger destination to be connected directly from Bengaluru.

Starting its operations in May 2008, KIA now directly connects 72 domestic cities and 28 international ones.

Bangalore International Airport Limited Chief Operating Officer Satyaki Raghunath said, "This is a very important milestone in our journey to be the natural gateway to South and Central India."

KIA started with 90 lakh (9 million) passengers in our first year. "With our two runways and terminals, we will cater to over 400 lakh (40 million) this financial year. Over the next decade, we expect to serve an excess of 850 lakh (85 mn) passengers and 1 million tonnes of cargo annually."

Aviation safety consultant Captain Mohan Ranganathan said, "Bengaluru airport has grown fantastically as well as maintained its high standards. With two runways in place and connectivity and amenities it offers, public opts to fly out of Bengaluru. This is a loss to airports in neighouring cities, including Chennai."

Terminal 2 earns wide appreciation from many flyers who pass through it, he added.

AI EXPRESS LAUNCHES DAILY DIRECT SERVICE TO VIJAYAWADA AND INDORE

BENGALURU: Air India Express has launched daily direct flights from Bengaluru airport to Vijayawada and Indore from September 1, said an official release. The flight from KIA will depart at 4.05 pm and reach Vijayawada at 5.40 pm. In the return leg, it departs at 6.10 pm and reaches Bengaluru at 7.50 pm.The flight to Indore departs from KIA at 11.10 am and reaches Indore at 1 pm. In the return direction, it departs at 1.30 pm and reaches Bengalore at 3.30 pm.

Retendering for suburban rail stations gets 4 bids

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE second round of tenders to build four stations for the Mallige Line (Corridor Two) of the Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project (BSRP) at a cost of over Rs 450 crore has elicited response from four companies -- Rail Vikas Nigam Ltd, ITD Cementation India Ltd, Shankaranarayana Constructions Private Ltd and SOMA.

The nodal agency for implementing the project, Rail Infrastructure Development Enterprises Karnataka (K-RIDE), had called the tender on June 26 for Yeshwanthpur, Shettihalli, Medarahalli and Chikkabanavara stations.

They figure in the 25.57-km line that runs from Benniganahalli to Chikkabanavara. An official said, "This is the technical bid round and four concerns have qualified. We will open the financial bids in a week."

A tender was called separately for eight stations on the line on June 15. "It will be opened on Wednesday (September 4)," the official said. Benniganahalli, Kasturi Nagar, Seva Nagar, Banaswadi, Nagawara, Kanaka Nagar, Hebbal and Mathikere figure in it.

Tenders for all the 12 stations were called in November 2023, but they were cancelled later as K-RIDE received only a single bid from URC Constructions.

The tender for the stations cover entry/exit structures, steel foot over bridge, roof structures, architectural finish, plumbing, facade, detailed design and other engineering works.

The 148-km project has 58 stations across its four corridors. Tenders have been called for civil works in two corridors so far with L&T bagging it for the Mallige Line as well as the 46.88 km Kanaka Line from Rajanakunte to Hellalige.

IISc inks agreement with Urban Morph to improve mobility in city

BENGALURU: The Indian Institute of Science's (IISc) Sustainable Transportation Lab (IST Lab) on Tuesday signed an MoU with Urban Morph, Bengaluru, to set up a Centre of Excellence for Active Mobility in the city. The centre will work on research, plans, collaborations, monitoring and evaluation of human-powered transportation modes like walking and cycling, in a bid to make the city efficient in transportation, and to make it more livable. The MoU will also include modes and methodologies that make our public spaces offer equity in mobility to gender, age, economic strata and disabilities. Prof Ashish Verma, Convenor of IISc Sustainable Transportation, said the principles of the centre bring together the ecosystem in an open collaboration model. It will articulate the vision of a liveable city with quality of life driven by green urban mobility, powered by active urban greenways in urban areas. The CoE will perform convening, programme management and communications wherever necessary and enhance the works of others.

Ensure prasad for Ganesha Chaturthi from FSSAI-registered sellers only, BBMP told

BENGALURU: The Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) has directed the BBMP to ensure that the prasad distributed during the Gowri Ganesha festival on September 6 and 7, is prepared only by FSSAI-registered or licensed individuals and sellers. The directive aims to maintain the highest standards of hygiene, quality, and food safety, especially with a large number of devotees expected to gather at various locations where Ganesha idols will be installed. FSSAI Commissioner Srinivas K said that in a communication to the BBMP's Special Commissioner (Health), the food safety department emphasised that local bodies granting permission for the installation of Ganesha idols must enforce this strictly too. The directive is part of broader efforts to prevent potential health hazards during the festival. "The BBMP has been requested to issue necessary instructions to its officials, ensuring that all prasad preparation is in compliance with food safety regulations, thus protecting public health during the festive period," Srinivas mentioned.

'Contractor strike to hit Ganesha idol immersion'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH the BBMP contractors going on strike over the Palike reportedly withholding 25 per cent of the bill amount due to them, until April 2021, the contractors association on Tuesday said the 15-day deadline given to BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath by Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar to fix over 2,500 potholes will be impacted. Apart from this, the Rs1,800-crore white-topping work on all major roads and stormwater drain work, will also be hit, BBMP Working Contractors' Association president KT Manjunath said.

Over 700 contractors are expected to take part in a protest at Freedom Park on Wednesday. "We have got police permission for a day's agitation. We will observe a hunger strike, and later, will rope in garbage contractors too. We are only demanding our rightful money, which the BBMP is not releasing, despite the DCM's order," said Manjunath.

He also added that since many contractors have decided to go on strike, the deployment of mobile tankers and support staff for the Ganesha idol immersion at pre-decided Kalyanis, will also take a hit.

PETER VIDAL

04TH September: Now the good news. Venus, lady of love, is currently in a rather passionate position. Or, to put it another way, the planet of romance is able to indulge its dreams. It is just one alignment this week which encourages romance, boosting lovers, poets and artists everywhere. If you're a natural dreamer, this could be the perfect week for you.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Just as it seems that the world was too domi-nated by Venus' slightly hysterical location, along comes Mars, your very special planet, with its firm, uncompromising desire to put the world to rights. Make the most of it and attempt to seize the lead.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
One lesser-known characte-ristic of your sign is a love of luxury, excess and indulgence. Seeing as this is not just a perfect moment, but the perfect moment to enjoy yourself, please keep routine comm-itments in their proper place. The last thing you want now is to be overwhelmed by extra chores.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You may still feel that others are being inconside-rate, unprofessional or just plain irresponsible. I am afraid that, if this is the case, you will just have to be patient while they indulge themselves. You will find very soon that partners will change their minds - in your favour.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
All of a sudden you're back in the land of serious, challenging and supportive astrological alignments. Over the next two months you will require every ounce of your native wit and perception, if you are to maintain your position on all fronts, personal, domestic and professional. I'm sure you'll succeed admirably.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Be aware that you still need some sound advice over finances, at least until next week has come and gone. One point in your favour is that this is an ideal week for reaching agreement on a wide range of issues, personal as well as professional.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may have realised by now that nobody and nothing should prevent you from taking advantage of new offers. The first rewards of any recent actions could be financial and will result in a greater feeling of security. And once that happens you'll be much happier.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
In time you will look back on this period of your life as one when you finally got rid of a great many unnecessary anxieties and pointless worries. However, the process by which this occurs may require all the determination at your disposal. And that, as it happens, is well within your abilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You have triumphed over so many apparently insurmountable obstacles in the past that you have little concern about present difficulties, which are trivial by comparison. By all means distract yourself by going on a spending spree, as long as you've got the spare cash.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You may enjoy the fruits of your labours, but do be aware that partners will be expecting you to fulfil your domestic responsibilities, today. There doesn't seem to be any chance that you can worm your way out of a commitment which was freely given, so stick with it - at least for now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Keep a close watch on relationships at work. Take it on yourself to offer authority and stability without necessarily being a restrictive influence and you will avoid a great deal of frustration. What friends and partners need is a firm but fair hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Is there a possibility that you will be travelling abroad for your work, or to fulfil some other commitment? Certainly there does seem to be a connection at present between overseas commitments and responsibility, but there is still further information to come.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Mars is teaming up with Venus, so you may be just a little more hyper-sensitive than usual. Sensible relaxation may be just what you want to keep a level head where other people are concerned. Yet what you need right now is a determination to stick to your guns.

BJP MLC got CA site illegally: Cong

Urges guv to disqualify Chalavadi Narayanswamy for acquiring site as KHB director

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CONGRESS legislators on Tuesday urged Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot to disqualify BJP MLC and Leader of Opposition in the Council Chaluvadi Narayanswamy, alleging that he illegally acquired a civic amenities site belonging to the Karnataka Housing Board (KHB) in Hoskote for construction of a school.

This comes in the backdrop of BJP leader Lahar Singh Siroya recently accusing the government of allotting a five acre CA site in a aerospace park to a trust run by AICC president Mallikarjuna Kharge and his sons Priyank and Rahul Kharge. The governor has sought clarification from the government over allotment of site to Kharge's trust.

Congress leaders, including MLC Saleem Ahmed, met the governor and submitted a memorandum demanding action against Narayanswamy. In their memorandum, the legislators alleged that Narayanaswamy was a director of KHB between 2002 and 2004. During that period, he acquired the land for the school which he "owned". The KHB has issued a no objection certificate for the land, they alleged.

"In 2006, Narayaswamy, acting as president of the educational trust, executed a conditional sale deed for construction of a telecommunication building. It is presently given on rent to a food joint which is misappropriation of a CA site to run a commercial restaurant," they alleged. Further, the memorandum said under section 13 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, it is a punishable offence if a public servant intentionally enriches himself illicitly during the period of his office. Narayanswamy has deceived the board and public by getting a conditional sale deed of the CA site.

The Congress leaders stated that given the lightening speed with which the governor had acted in the past few days, they hoped that Narayanswamy is also held to the same standards. "We hope that your excellency does not apply a different standard to Narayanswamy merely because he is a member of the ruling party at the Centre," the Congress leaders stated.

GOVT VS ROYAL FAMILY

Amid ownership tussle, CM has devpt agenda for Chamundi

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

EVEN as the Mysuru royal family has claimed ownership of Chamundi Hill and the temple continues its legal tussle, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah chaired the Sri Chamundeshwari Kshetra Development Authority's first meeting, with the focus on improving basic facilities, developing temples and banning illegal construction atop the hill to make it more attractive.

Presiding over the first meeting of the Authority at Dasoha Bhavan, Siddaramaiah said the government decided to set up Sri Chamundeshwari Kshetra Development Authority and passed the bill on the lines of development bodies for MM Hill temple, Savadatti Yellamma and other temples falling under the Endowment department.

He said there was a committee that provided basic facilities but the Authority has been constituted to further develop the temple that attracts thousands of devotees across the region. However, they have constructed a bus station, multi-level parking and shopping complex.

Siddaramaiah said work on the drinking water project, that was started in 2018, is yet to be completed along with waste treatment plants. I have directed officers to complete all pending projects within a month, he added.

The government has decided to form a task force to provide security to devotees visiting the temple and will install CCTV cameras under the CSR fund, improve illumination with streetlights and also extend health coverage and support the education of the temple staff.

CHANGE AT CHAMUNDI

- Ban on plastic use
- No smoking, consumption of alcohol, tobacco
- Ban on mobile use, taking photographs inside temple
- No dress code
- CCTV cameras to be installed
- Dasoha Bhavan complex to be developed
- 24 temples to be developed

On the other hand, the authorities were directed to prepare a masterplan for the development of 24 temples, taking into consideration suggestions from ministers and elected representatives. Work will be taken up at Kote Anjaneya, Varaha, Bhuvaneshwari, Gayathri and Prasanna Krishnaswamy temples.

The focus will also be on cleanliness in temple complexes, and improving facilities like toilets and drinking water. The authority has decided to contribute Rs 11 crore matching grant for implementation of the Union government's 'prasada' programme.

Clarifying that there is no dearth of funds, he said Chamundi temple has deposits of Rs162 crore and Rs6 crore in savings account. The temple revenue was Rs 49.64 crore in 2023-24 of which Rs21 crore is expenses and Rs17 crore is revenue till July 2024, with expenditure at Rs6.9 crore.

He directed officers to conduct a survey of government land and identify encroachments that will be cleared on priority.

Meeting held as per law: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah said the meeting of the Chamundeshwari Kshetra Development Authority was conducted as the stay granted by the court on a petition filed by Pramodadevi Wadiyar of the erstwhile Mysuru royal family against the setting up of the authority, was vacated on August 22.

He told reporters that the meeting was held legally. Yaduveer Krishnadutta Wadiyar and Pramodadevi terming the meeting as "illegal" was not true, he said.

Asked about the Justice John Michael Cunha commission report on lapses during the Covid-19 pandemic, he said the commission has submitted the report to the government and it will be tabled before the cabinet to act against wrongdoers. "I have not read the report and I can get back only after going through it," he added.

Asked about former health minister Dr K Sudhakar terming it a "false report with a political motive", the CM shot back, "How can Sudhakar know it is false when the contents are not yet disclosed? Sudhakar's tone suggests that he knows that he has done something wrong. Such comments show his state of mind."

On the suspension of former MUDA commissioner Dinesh Kumar, he said he has not gone through the orders. The government has ordered a probe into the MUDA scam and action will be taken against one more MUDA commissioner if he is found guilty in the report.

Siddu should resign on moral grounds: Ashoka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

LEADER of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka said by suspending GT Dinesh, former commissioner of Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA), for allotment of sites on a 50:50 ratio, the government has indirectly admitted that the allocation of sites to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife was illegal.

Dinesh was suspended as registrar of Haveri University after he was appointed to the post three to four days ago, despite heavy criticism. The suspension order mentions that the 50:50 ratio rule he implemented was improper.

Speaking to media persons here on Tuesday, the BJP leader said the government had not taken any action even 10 months after the technical committee constituted by the BJP government had given its report on irregularities in the MUDA. Though the investigation was under way, the officer was posted as a university registrar before he was suspended, he said. Since the MUDA scam came to light, the CM has been perturbed, he said.

Ashoka said people are asking why the CM needs 14 sites, but the Congress is accusing BJP leaders of targeting a backward class leader. The governor is also being targeted for permitting to prosecute the CM in the MUDA case, he said. "Is there a provision in the law for the CM, who is accused of wrongdoing to constitute a commission to look into it?" he asked.

Many in the Congress are saying that the CM is disturbed; at least now he should resign, taking moral responsibility, he said.

BJP MLC N Ravi Kumar said the CM should resign and return 14 sites to the MUDA. It is a big scam that needs to be investigated by an agency that is not reporting to the state government, he added.

'GOVT IN A COMA'

Ashoka said the Congress government is in a coma due to scams, and development works have come to a standstill. The BJP leader said development work would not have stopped if the CM had resigned. The government has not given compensation to those hit by floods in North Karnataka, roads are in bad condition, especially after the rain, and people are suffering due to potholed roads, he said. "The Congress government is in a coma. Leaders in Congress are fighting for the CM's post. In Bengaluru, contractors are protesting as Rs 1,500 crore that is due to them is not released. Garbage is dumped all over the city. It is a Brand Bengaluru without funds," he said. The Siddaramaiah government is not even capable of ensuring proper Kannada translation of the Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC) examination question paper, he said. Ashoka hit out at DyCM DK Shivakumar and called him a "part-time" Bengaluru Development Minister, who makes many announcements that are never implemented.

Bommai: All's not well in Cong, CM's chair shaky

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Gadag

THE chief minister's chair is shaky as the government has not done any work in the last one year and disillusioned Congress MLAs have triggered a conflict within the ruling party, said former CM and Haveri-Gadag MP Basavaraj Bommai here on Tuesday.

"While Congress claims everything is fine, internally there is a lot of political backstabbing. When we look at the state's history, Virendra Patil was one of the strongest chief ministers of Congress, but yet all MLAs were made to switch sides overnight. D Devaraj Urs then replaced him with R Gundu Rao. Urs was reelected CM for the second time by his own strength. S Bangarappa had the support of 183 MLAs, yet even he was replaced as CM. Such politics will continue," he commented.

Asked if Chief Minister Siddaramaiah would go to jail in the MUDA case, Bommai replied, "As a responsible former chief minister, I will not predict the future. The law will take its course."

On Congress veteran and MLA RV Deshpande saying he too is in the race for chief minister's post, Bommai said, "I don't know the reason behind his statement. There have been several reactions from within Congress. Their responses are evidence that not everything is fine within that party."

He said that because of better management of finances by the previous BJP government, the present government has managed to sustain itself for the past six months. "But this year will be a challenge as the government has to implement the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission. The expenditure will be more. The financial downturn is not far away. As it is, salaries of Anganwadi workers are being delayed by three to four months. It will be difficult to pay the salaries of other government employees too in the near future," he cautioned. Bommai said state Congress leaders claimed that there was no scam in MUDA, but the government on Monday suspended a former commissioner of the Authority, based on a technical committee report. It seems not everything was done legally, he added.

On the alleged scam in medical procurement during Covid, he said, "Only an interim report is out. Let the full report come out."

Meeting violated court order: Mysuru royal family

Mysuru: The erstwhile Mysuru royal family has expressed displeasure at the maiden meeting of the Chamundeshwari Development Authority, which was chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday, stating that the authorities violated the court order. Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar said, "Shree Chamundeshwari Kshetra Development Authority Act, 2024, is under legal challenge in the Karnataka High Court. The court issued an interim order on July 26, directing that the Act should not be implemented till further notice. Despite this, the meeting was held, which is in direct violation of the court's order." Pramodadevi Wadiyar, who filed the case before the court, communicated to the secretary of the authority that the court had passed an ad interim order directing that the Act should not effected. Hence, the meeting was in violation of the interim order, and she requested the authority not to alter the status quo ante. ENS

Bellad apologises to Siddu for harsh words

Bengaluru: The Deputy Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Aravind Bellad wrote to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah apologising for using objectionable words against him during a recent press meet. While criticising the State Government's decision to sell land to JSW, Bellad had questioned if it was "Siddaramaiah's father's property". "It was unbecoming of me to use these words. I apologise to you," Bellad told Siddaramaiah. Meanwhile, the CM shared a copy of the letter on social media. Siddaramaiah said that while making speeches, politicians often turn emotional and tend to use such words without their knowledge that bring disrespect to others. After realising that he had committed a mistake, Bellad tendered an apology, the CM added. "I accept (Bellad's apology) wholeheartedly ... ," Siddaramaiah said. ENS

Kumaraswamy submits proposal for RPF training centre at KR Nagar to Vaishnaw

Mysuru: Union Minister for Heavy Industries and Steel H D Kumaraswamy has formally submitted a proposal to Union Minister for Railways Ashwini Vaishnaw advocating for the establishment of a Railway Protection Force (RPF) Training Centre on the banks of River Cauvery in Krishnarajanagar (KR Nagar) of Mysuru district. The proposed centre aims to boost the overall development of Mandya and Mysuru districts while increasing job opportunities for local youths. Though KR Nagar is geographically part of Mysuru district, it falls under the Mandya Lok Sabha constituency represented by Kumaraswamy. The Railway Ministry had previously inspected the site and submitted a supplementary report, which supported the feasibility of the project. ENS

All ministers, MLAs with CM: Shivanand Patil

Belagavi: Sugar Minister Shivanand Patil said any able leader will have a desire to become the chief minister, but the top post is currently not vacant. Patil told reporters here on Tuesday that senior Congress leader RV Deshpande's recent statement highlighting his wish to become CM, is personal. "He is a senior Congress MLA and there is nothing wrong on his part to aspire for the top post," he added. "Our party is not thinking to change the CM. All speculation about the next CM will arise only if Siddaramaiah resigns from the post. However, all ministers and MLAs are with Siddaramaiah." ENS

MILK PROCUREMENT PRICE HIKE

SLAP ON FACE OF DAIRY FARMERS: JOSHI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hubballi

WHILE the Narendra Modi government came to the rescue of farmers with the price support programme, the Siddaramaiah government in the state is doing just the opposite with the reduction in the milk procurement price, said Union Minister for Food, Public Distribution, and Consumer Welfare Pralhad Joshi.

Joshi stated that in the wake of falling prices, the Central government was buying food grains at minimum support prices. However, the state government has slashed the procurement price of milk by Rs 1.5 a litre, he added.

The farmers of the state are in dire straits following crop damage due to heavy rain. At such a time, the Central government increased the support price for green gram, black gram, sunflower and soybean and allowed the opening of procurement centres. However, milk unions in the state have reduced the procurement price of milk, he added.

Stop unions' move: HDK

Bengaluru: Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy has slammed the decision by milk unions to reduce the milk procurement price by Rs 1.50 per litre and urged Chief Minister Siddaramaiah to take immediate action to prevent this. He said milk unions have unilaterally reduced the procurement price from Rs 30.50 to Rs 29 per litre. The CM should pay attention to this as they claim it to be a pro-farmer government, he said.

Two months back, the government burnt a hole in the pocket of consumers by increasing the milk price by Rs 2, and now it has hit milk producers by reducing the procurement price, Joshi said.

"The real losers in dairy farming are not milk unions, but farmers. Because the cost of milk production has doubled. Prices of cows and buffaloes have increased. Animal feed prices have also doubled, and so rearing has become expensive," he said.

If such a situation persists, small farmers will turn away from dairy farming, and the milk sector could become a monopoly of private milk producers, Joshi said, and appealed to the government to immediately withdraw the price reduction order and ensure fair prices for milk producers.

HC refuses to quash case against teacher

Crime registered against him for recording videos, clicking pics of minor girls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court refused to quash criminal proceedings against Muniyappa (46), a drawing teacher of a Government Residential School in Kolar district, in connection with the crime registered against him for allegedly recording videos and clicking photographs of minor girl students in the school when they were changing their clothes.

"What is shocking is the petitioner has five mobile phones of different brands. All the mobile phones were seized and sent to FSL. Each mobile phone has close to 1,000 images and several hundreds of videos. The petitioner is a drawing teacher. Why he is in possession of five mobile phones, and what are the videos and pictures therein, are all a matter of investigation. The very fact that he is a drawing teacher and holds five mobile devices is inexplicable, which can be thrashed out only in an investigation or full-blown trial. Each of the mobile phones has a secure digital card (SD card), which again has a lot of material, according to the report," said Justice M Nagaprasanna, rejecting the petition filed by Muniyappa.

This was after State Public Prosecutor BN Jagadeesha submitted that the petitioner has indulged in acts which would clearly become an offence under Section 12 of the POCSO Act. He had shot videos and taken photographs of girls while they were changing clothes. The articles seized from the petitioner were sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL), he said, while placing investigation papers before the court.

The judge noted that if the complaint, the statements of the petitioner recorded during investigation and FSL report are noticed, what emerges is the offence is more than horrendous. "More than horrendous, I say, for the reason that the petitioner is a teacher; being a teacher it is indecorous on the part of the petitioner to have allegedly shot the videos and taken pictures of girl children when they were changing their dress, the alleged offence is unpardonable, albeit prima facie. If this cannot become a crime, it is un-understandable what else can be," the judge said.

The judge also said that it is for the petitioner to come out clean in a full-blown trial, as any entertainment of the petition at the stage of registration of crime, would be putting a premium on the illegal activities of the teacher.

THREE KILL TIPPER DRIVER OVER MINOR SCUFFLE, HELD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 30-year-old driver was murdered during a scuffle, after a pickup vehicle driver hit the headlight of a parked tipper truck while reversing his vehicle. The incident occurred at Green Park Dhabha near Kunigal Road on the outskirts of the city on Tuesday morning around 1am. Nelamangala Rural police arrested the three accused.

The deceased was identified as Pradeep (30), a tipper truck driver from Tavarekere. The arrested accused are Mahesh (33), poultry pickup driver Sunil Kumar (31), and Boglinga (23), all natives of Kalaburagi.

Bengaluru Rural SP CK Baba told TNIE the incident occurred between 12.30am and 1.30am on Tuesday. Mahesh hit the tipper's headlight while reversing, leading to a verbal altercation between the two vehicle owners. The situation escalated when Mahesh brought a jack rod from his vehicle and hit Pradeep's head before fleeing. Passersby alerted police and rushed him to a nearby hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries in the morning," the SP said.

Acting swiftly, Nelamangala Rural police based on CCTV footage, vehicle number and technical evidence, arrested the three accused within hours of the incident and registered a case under Section 103 of the BNS.

This is the second incident in the past one week. Last Wednesday, a 17-year-old was stabbed to death over a car park issue in Madanayakanahalli police station limits.

150 patients to get free stents at Jayadev

ENS @ Bengaluru

TO help financially constrained patients, the 15th Indo-American Angioplasty workshop will offer free medicated stents to 150 patients, at the Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research in Mysuru and Bengaluru. Scheduled for September 26-28 in Bengaluru, the workshop is a collaborative effort between Medtronic USA and Dr Govindaraju Subramani, Heart Foundation, Illinois, USA.

The initiative targets economically disadvantaged patients and senior citizens who have already undergone coronary angiograms. Eligible patients must present a Below Poverty Line card or a low-income certificate at admission. Cardiology department heads and faculty are urged to refer eligible patients to the Director's office by September 21, to register.

Woman passenger thrown out of car

ALL of them work in an IT company. The bike rider, Manjunath (38), an electrical worker and a resident of Kachamachanahalli in Chikkaballapur, too has sustained grievous injuries. Though all the three men were inside the car when it fell, Anushree was thrown out of the vehicle because of the impact, and fell on the flyover.

Passersby alerted the police patrol vehicle Hoysala, and the injured were shifted to a nearby private hospital. Shabarish died during treatment.

Shabarish and Mithun had driven down to Bengaluru to collect Shabarish's visa and had met up with their friends in Malleswaram. After partying, they went searching for food from Dairy Circle towards Tumakuru when their car was involved in the accident. Liquor bottles were found inside the car and the police have sought a medical test on Mithun to check whether he was driving under the influence of alcohol.

The police have registered a case against Mithun under Sections 281 (rash or negligent driving) and 106 (causing death) of the BNS.

The car hit the median, collided with a bike and plunged 30 feet below

While Anushree is being treated at the private hospital near the accident spot, the others have been shifted to Manipal Hospital as they are critical and needed intensive care. "One of them has sustained a serious brain injury and is under the supervision of the neuro team. The second patient has suffered a facial bone fracture and requires monitoring in a surgical ICU. The third patient has suffered severe chest injuries causing massive hemothorax and there is significant accumulation of blood around the lungs. An intercostal drain (ICD) was placed, and fluids and multiple blood transfusions were administered to stabilise him" Manipal Hospital said.

The spot of Tuesday's accident is prone to mishaps. This is the same spot where a Central Armed Reserve vehicle that was part of former Tamil Nadu chief minister late M Karunanidhi's convoy toppled injuring two policemen in December 2009.

Naidu suspects foul play in damage to Prakasam barrage

AP CM flays 'negligent' officials, calls Jagan's visit to flood-hit areas '5-minute show'; Boats damage Gate 69 of dam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

ANDHRA PRADESH Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu took strong exception to the lackadaisical attitude of some officials deployed for flood relief and rescue operations.

Further, he warned them of serious action if they do not fall in line.

Speaking to mediapersons on Tuesday afternoon, Naidu said he has been forced to suspect foul play following a series of incidents that have happened. "We will find out where the boats, which damaged the counterweight of Gate 69 of the Prakasam Barrage, came from and who they belong to," he said.

Angry over the non-cooperation from certain officials, the Chief Minister said during the five years under the previous dispensation, every system was rendered inefficient and ineffective. "Showcause notices have been issued to some, while one official in Jakkampudi has been suspended. I will not spare anyone. I will not hesitate to take action against my ministers if they do not work properly," he asserted.

Reminding officials that both he and them are here to work for the people, as it is taxpayers' money that is being paid as salaries, Naidu stressed, "It isour bounden duty to serve the people, more so in this hour of need." Further, he told negligent officials not to lose their dignity by such conduct.

Taking exception to the comments of YSRC president YS Jagan Mohan Reddy and other leaders, the Chief Minister remarked, "Criminals in guise of politicians are trying to divert the attention of the government to create problems for people. What more can we expect from people who killed 'Babai' and penned 'Narasura Raktha Charitra'? Under such circumstances, it is even more important for officials to ensure that no mistakes happen and people don't suffer."

Dismissing Jagan's visit to flood-affected areas as a 'five-minute show', Naidu sought to know if the former Chief Minister gave even a single food packet to anyone or saved anyone or interacted with the affected residents. "In such a crisis, extending help without any inhibitions and being humane is important," he said.

Elaborating on the ongoing relief and rescue operations, the Chief Minister reiterated that his government is making every effort to reach out to the last person at the last mile and ensure no one suffers.

RENUKASWAMY MURDER CASE

CHARGESHEET AGAINST DARSHAN, OTHERS IN DAY OR 2

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

The Kamakshipalya police investigating the kidnapping and murder of 33-year-old Renukaswamy are all set to submit a detailed chargesheet against the 17 accused, including actor Darshan, either on Wednesday or Thursday.

Bengaluru City Police Commissioner B Dayananda confirmed this on Tuesday. The chargesheet is ready after a thorough scrutiny from the Special Public Prosecutor (SPP).

"Investigations are over. Scrutiny from the Special Public Prosecutor is also done. The SPP has made some observations, which we are complying with. Within a day or two, the chargesheet will be submitted to the court. We have got sufficient and necessary witnesses and evidence in the case. A ll reports from the city's FSL have come. There were certain questions from the police that have also been answered by the FSL. A few more reports are yet to come from Hyderabad's Central Forensic Laboratory. As per the findings in the investigation and evidence, the accused will be booked under appropriate sections based on their role in the incident," Dayananda said.

According to informed sources, eight more reports are yet to come from CFSL that will be included in the additional chargesheet.

Meanwhile, rowdy-sheeters Wilson Garden Naga, Kulla Seena, and Dharma might also be shifted to different jails.

A photo of actor Darshan sipping tea and chatting with Naga and Seena inside the Bengaluru Central Prison went viral recently. After this incident, Darshan was moved to Ballari prison. Dharma was the one who gave Darshan the phone to talk to his friend while he was making a video call. "We have requested the officials of the Department of Prisons to shift them to different jails. The matter is before the court. After the court grants permission, further action will be taken," Dayananda added.

KIN CAN EXPECT JUSTICE FROM STATE GOVT, SAYS Dr G

On the Renukaswamy murder case, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said the investigation officer will decide who is A1 and A2 based on the probe and witnesses. "We will get them justice... Renukaswamy's family can expect justice from the State Government," he said.

BOOKED FOR RAPE, NIVIN PAULY CLAIMS ALLEGATIONS FAKE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

The Malayalam film industry suffered a fresh jolt on Tuesday after actor Nivin Pauly was named as one of the accused in a rape case registered on the complaint of a woman from Oonnukal in Ernakulam's Kothamangalam. Following news reports of an FIR against him, Nivin, in a hurriedly-convened press conference in Kochi at night, termed the allegation fake and said he did not know the complainant. He also said he would go to any length to prove his innocence.

"This is a fake allegation. I don't know this woman and have never seen her. I am ready to face the investigation and will cooperate with the investigation team to prove my innocence," Nivin said.

The complainant, a resident of Oonnukal, has alleged that she was raped last year in Dubai on the pretext of being offered a role in a film. She has alleged the involvement of multiple persons, including Nivin.

The FIR, registered by Oonnukal police under Ernakulam rural police limits, names six persons: a woman Shreya, film producer A K Sunil who is known for movies 'Vijay Superum Pournamiyum' and 'Manoharam,' Binu, Basheer and Kuttan, who were associated with the films, and Nivin, who is the sixth accused. Nivin said he was responding to the allegation the same day as someone has to fight the fake charges. He said he was speaking for the industry at a time when all and sundry were coming up with fake allegations.

Mekedatu will benefit TN more than K'taka: DKS in Chennai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

KARNATAKA Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Tuesday reiterated his view that the Mekedatu dam proposed by his state would be more beneficial to Tamil Nadu than Karnataka.

When reporters asked about the project and Tamil Nadu's strong opposition to it, Shivakumar said, "I don't want to discuss Mekedatu now since "rain Gods" are (now) helping the two states. Let good sense prevail upon Tamil Nadu people also. We will get some relief from the court. I appeal to the Tamil Nadu government and leaders of all parties. The Mekedatu dam project will be more beneficial to Tamil Nadu than Karnataka." When a scribe asked the rationale behind his statement that Mekedatu would benefit Tamil Nadu more than Karnataka, Shivakumar said, "Let us have a separate debate on this."

Shivakumar was in Chennai inspecting the functioning of the bio-CNG plant in Chetpet and few other facilities to know more about Greater Chennai Corporation's handling of solid waste management.

After the visit, he said that the visit was a good learning process for him and the Karnataka delegation.

The Karnataka Deputy CM also called on Tamil Nadu Youth Welfare and Sports Development Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin at the latter's residence in Chennai.

Karnataka to create skill corridors with global innovators

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA will establish dedicated skill corridors with each of its Global Innovation Alliance (GIA) partner countries, with efforts under way to foster international collaborations and drive technological advancements, Minister for IT/BT and Rural Development Priyank Kharge said on Tuesday. He was speaking during the GIA meet hosted to promote the Bengaluru Tech Summit (BTS) 2024 before international representatives.

Minister Kharge revealed that the state plans to release the draft of the Global Capability Centre (GCC) policy this month, based on suggestions from the Global Innovation Alliance (GIA). The policy aims to improve the ease of doing business and attract more global investments into Karnataka.

Speaking on skill corridors, Kharge proposed creating a 'startup corridor' specifically between Bengaluru and San Francisco, focusing on sector-specific collaborations rather than broad agreements. He suggested similar initiatives for AI, sports tech with Melbourne, and fintech with Denmark, highlighting the importance of targeted partnerships.

He further announced that Karnataka would soon launch a Centre of Excellence in Water Management, emphasizing the critical need for better water technologies.

Kharge mentioned that discussions are under way with the UK's Catapult Network and Paris's Station F incubator to bolster Karnataka's Centres of Excellence (CoEs) and support the growth of startups.

Highlighting BTS 2024, Kharge said this year's summit is themed around 'Breaking Boundaries' and will feature a wide range of activities, including a 6-track conference covering IT and Deep Tech, Biotech and Healthtech, Startup Ecosystem, Global Innovation Alliance, India-USA Tech Conclave, and the newly added Electro-Semicon track.

The conference will host over 85 sessions, with special programmes like the India-USA Tech Conclave, CEO Conclave, Startup Conclave, and Fireside Chats.

Dr Ekroop Caur, secretary to government, Department of Electronics, IT/ BT, and Science and Technology, highlighted the importance of GIA in promoting Karnataka as a global innovation hub, fostering partnerships with over 30 countries worldwide.

She mentioned several key initiatives, including the Global Innovation Alliance Market Access Programme (GIA MAP), which facilitated exploratory visits for growth-stage Karnataka startups to countries like UAE, Singapore, Belgium, Australia and Germany, supporting 42 startups. Additionally, she highlighted a new monthly event launched in August this year, the GIA Mixer, to promote collaboration, starting with DeepTech and Fintech startups in Australia.

SL court fines 12 Indian fishers ₹98.3 lakh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Thoothukudi

A Sri Lankan court on Tuesday imposed a penalty of 3.5 crore LKR (₹98.3 lakh) on 12 Tamil Nadu fishermen who were arrested by the Lankan Navy on August 5 on the charges of trespassing and illegal fishing in Sri Lankan waters. If the fishers fail to pay the fine, they will be made to undergo a six months jail term, the court ruled. According to sources, the Lankan Navy arrested 22 fishermen, who set sail for fishing on two vessels from Tharuvaikulam fishing harbour in Thoothukudi, near Kuthiraimalai in mid-sea on August 5.

While 12 fishermen were onboard the vessel owned by Anthony Maharaja, 10 fishermen were travelling on a vessel owned by Anthony Thean Denila. The fishers have been in court custody since August 6. Judgment related to the other 10 arrested fishers will be pronounced later, the court said.

Shobha says sorry for linking Tamilians to Bengaluru cafe blast

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

UNION Minister of State for MSME and Labour and Employment and BJP leader from Karnataka Shobha Karandlaje has tendered an apology to the people of Tamil Nadu, through the Madras High Court, for her comments made against Tamils in connection with the Rameshwaram Café blast in Bengaluru.

"I state that I have the highest respect and regard to the history, rich culture, tradition and to the people of Tamil Nadu, and I had or have no intention whatsoever to hurt the sentiments of people of Tamil Nadu by any conduct of mine. Hence, I hereby once again tender my apology to the people of Tamil Nadu for having caused any hurt from my comments. The same may kindly be taken on record in the interest of justice," she said in the affidavit filed before Justice G Jayachandran.

She prayed the court to record the affidavit and quash the FIR filed by the Madurai cyber crime police.

Advocate General PS Raman said he would get back after getting instructions from the government whether apology affidavit was satisfactory or not.

Siddaramaiah stresses on the need to increase forest cover

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said efforts should be made to increase the forest cover.

"According to the information I have, the forest cover in Karnataka is 20%... but Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre says it is 22%... it is still less than the prescribed percentage. Forest and environmental laws are very strict. Forest staffers should also ensure strict vigilance," the CM said.

On the human-animal conflict, Siddaramaiah said that animals get out of forests in search of food and water. "So, the forest department should ensure there is no shortage of water and food. This will in turn ensure there are no human-animal conflicts and deaths," he said.

The CM was speaking after distributing 47 CM medals to forest staffers. He also handed over medals to the wives of two deceased foresters.

He also handed over appointment letters to 267 forest watchers. He also released the book- Walk on the Wildlife 2.0 and a booklet (CM Medal Awardees 2022, 2023). The CM pointed out that distribution of medals should be an annual exercise and there should be no backlog in recognising the hard work of foresters and in the recruitment process.

Khandre said that from this year on, counseling for forest staffers till the level of Deputy Range Forest Officers will start, and from next year on, it will be extended to the officials till the level of range forest officers (RFOs). He said this is needed in wake of the rising stress levels and the hard field work they undertake.

On HMT land, Khandre said that the recovered vacant encroached land will be made into a lung space on the lines of Cubbon Park and Lalbagh. He added that in Bengaluru the green space under the forest department is 89 sq km, and in the last 10 years, 5 sq km of area has been lost.

Khandre used the occasion to appeal to the CM to release Rs 500 crore for the creation of rail barricades and to mitigate human-animal conflict.

CHARGING TYTLER FOR DELHI ANTI-SIKH RIOTS A LONG-DELAYED STEP

A mighty tree did indeed fall in Delhi on October 31 four decades ago, but the earth around her should never have been shaken the way it was for several days after. The anti-Sikh carnage unleashed after Indira Gandhi's assassination claimed, according to official records, 2,146 lives in Delhi and 586 in other parts of the country; the numbers were much higher by most other counts. Several commissions were set up by governments to probe the murder, arson and loot that had unfolded. The most consequential of them—led by Justice G T Nanavati, which finished its two-volume report in February 2005—identified several Congressmen as having led and instigated the violence. Prominent on the list was Jagdish Tytler, then the minister for overseas Indians. Despite counter-claims, the commission found "credible evidence" that Tytler "very probably had a hand in organising attacks on Sikhs".

What followed was decades of deflection, obfuscation and delays. Last week, in a 57-page order that also assessed the findings of all the earlier inquiries, special court judge Rakesh Syal asked the CBI to frame charges of murder, abetment, rioting, promoting enmity and unlawful assembly against Tytler, now aged 80. As late as last year, a recording of someone claiming to have killed "100 Sikhs" was forensically matched with Tytler's voice. Even if most charges of complicity are based on victim testimonies, Tytler's browbeating of the police to release his men had been independently recorded by several journalists.

That Tytler was given electoral tickets and made a minister despite a pile of testimonies against him reflected terribly on successive Congress leaderships. The travesty of natural justice was made worse when several deponents later refused to name him for the fear of reprisal from a minister. An atmosphere of administrative coercion had been a feature, not a bug of the context surrounding the inquiries. The Ranganath Mishra Commission had also recorded in its 1986 report that witnesses in Delhi, Kanpur and Bokaro had been threatened, at times by the local police, not to depose.

The day after Tytler resigned as minister in August 2005, Manmohan Singh told the Rajya Sabha, "On behalf of our government, on behalf of the entire people of this country, I bow my head in shame that such a thing took place." Today, after decades of anguish, thousands of families in Delhi can raise their heads towards a horizon where justice seems possible.

RAVENSHAW RENAMING CALL TRIGGERS DEBATE

THE reprisal of an old idea has set the cat among the pigeons in Odisha. Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan's suggestion of rechristening the 156-year-old Ravenshaw College—named after the British Commissioner of Odisha from 1865 to 1878, Thomas Edward Ravenshaw, who founded the state's first institution of higher education—has triggered a debate and a backlash. Pradhan recently questioned Ravenshaw's role in the Na'anka Durbhikhya or the Great Orissa Famine of 1866 that devastated the state and claimed more than 20 lakh lives. While the minister clarified it was his personal opinion and called for a larger debate, it was seen as an intention to provoke a now-familiar line of thought. The statement fits a decade's pattern of the BJP making efforts to replace colonial baggage with nationalistic symbols. And what better edifice could be found in Odisha than a colossus of the educational, cultural, intellectual and political identity of the state?

There are differing views on Ravenshaw's role as Odisha's administrator during the famine. Many historians say he did not have the experience in handling revenue administration when posted to a province that faced a devastating calamity within a year. Others believe he did not do enough to ensure food for the people, as a result of which around a third of the state's population was wiped out. However, there is no denying that in his later years he pioneered the development of formal education in the state and played a central role in ensuring that Odia flourished as a language of learning. The college founded by him has gone on to become synonymous with the history of Odisha and Odia identity. The who's who of the state emerged from its hallowed corridors. When the state was carved out in 1936, the governor was administered his oath in the college hall. Being a Ravenshawvian is an identity its students wear proudly on their chests. To this day, the university has maintained its academic excellence.

There have, though, been feeble voices in the past—in 1949 and more recently in 2017—for renaming the institution. But they died down fast. Pradhan has stoked the ember again. A broader debate this time will hopefully settle the matter.

QUICK TAKE

8 MONTHS, NOT 8 DAYS

WHEN Sunita Williams and Barry Wilmore blasted off towards the International Space Station in early June, they were expected to be back on terra firma in eight days. But the Boeing Starliner craft they were testing sprung leaks and they barely made it to the station. Now, they might be back eight months after liftoff. This week, star-gazers again skipped a beat when mysterious "sonar-like" sounds were spotted aboard the 25-year-old post hovering about 400 km above Earth. Nasa traced it to an audio crackle between the station and the Starliner. We hope the wealth of trouble-shooting experience Williams, 58, is gathering on her third mission will inform our Gaganauts, too.

The war of words within and between parties in Karnataka is showing no sign of abating. Even the silence of a few seems to signal ambition kept in check

THE UNIQUE POLITICAL CRISIS IN KARNATAKA

SUGATA SRINIVASARAJU

Senior journalist and author of Strange Burdens: The Politics and Predicaments of Rahul Gandhi

MANDAR PARDIKAR

EVEN at the risk of being told that it may be subjective nonsense or a long-existing default, one feels rather compelled to argue that a certain hopelessness, a certain type of gloom has taken over Karnataka in recent months. This has nothing to do with the diminished shine of the sun, but with the horrible degradation of words that one has been witness to. The ordinary citizen has had to endure a certain violent language in recent times. That has dimmed the mood.

If it is not a politically incorrect phrase to use, one may say that the multiple 'gang wars' that seem to have suddenly broken out between politicians threaten to disturb the clever composure that politics had hitherto manufactured. Each is competing to undo the other. Politicians usually create a sense of normality to ensure their transactions continue seamlessly. There is a code beyond which they do not disturb each other. But when that code is broken, when they themselves disturb that carefully poised normality, then we know something serious is churning. If one invited Shakespeare to this situation, he would say, "something is rotten in the state of Denmark."

To understand what is being argued here, one has to listen to the volley of exchanges Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has at regular intervals with Union minister H D Kumaraswamy. Every other day, they threaten to prosecute each other and send the other to jail. They invoke their past disloyalties to cancel out each other's claims of cleanliness. They both literally walk into the trap of local television channels, a khedda of microphones, whose staple technique of news generation is to broadcast abuse and chase raw reaction.

Similarly, words behave like guided missiles when a war breaks out between deputy CM D K Shivakumar and Kumaraswamy, and that happens all too often. After all, they have overlapping political and caste territories to guard. Mothers, fathers and families are drawn into their slugfest. Then, there are a set of estranged friends and associates of Kumaraswamy, who now form the Siddaramaiah faction in the Congress, whose singular job is to provoke him. The exchange that takes place between them is crowded with innuendoes.

Not to be left behind is former CM B S Yediyurappa. Past and current allegations against him, including a POCSO case, are often dangled to lock up his words. But he has a way of walking through all that is thrown at him with limping courage. Or is it brazenness? Does it emanate from confidence of his alleged sweet deals with rival administrations and politicians?

A charge that now threatens to stifle the career of his son, B Y Vijayendra, the sitting president of the BJP in Karnataka. Those accusing the father and son of perpetual 'adjustment' are their own party men in loud press meets. Another former CM in the saffron party has taken an injunction preventing stories against him. What his fear could be is not tough to imagine.

The power tussle inside the Karnataka Congress, which smells like a leadership change, adds to the swirling winds. Shivakumar is waiting in rather dark wings to replace Siddaramaiah. But since his vulnerabilities are far too many, others secretly desire to take the chair. The media speculation on this game of thrones has many seasons. Even the silence of syllables of a few aspirants cannot suppress the noise of their ambition. In some cases, those thought of as urban sophisticates have invoked new belligerence to defend their chief minister with the hope that the roulette game may favour them too. They hurled abuses at the governor but slowed down when they realised he was a Dalit and that may entangle them in legal difficulty.

All this ambition is being served with a broth of scams, which funnily is not being hurled by professional politicians in the opposition, but by a set of enterprising activists, proxies and journalists. The elected professional wants to keep his white unsullied and is therefore being served by professional muckrakers.

Siddaramaiah's case has anyway reached the courts for sanction—the case of 14 sites mysteriously being allotted to his equally mysterious wife, who has never been photographed in public. For her sake, Siddaramaiah demanded compensation from his own government.

The newest scam vortex has taken the Kharge family in. They are being accused of getting government land parcels to a trust in the name of a person who gave up everything seeking enlightenment—Siddhartha. Members of the trust are only first-circle family. Priyank Kharge has stood up to defend the allegations, but what he does not understand is what is officially denied in long messages on social media will add to suspicion. Priyank Kharge suggests every allocation to the trust is legal. However, legal and moral are different categories.

Similarly, Siddaramaiah's claims of compensation may be legal, but is it also moral? Is there an absence of conscience in his defence? When so many politicians spend so much time and money to defend their wealth, what impact does it have on the elector? Does it legitimise the desire to put a price tag on her vote? Does it make her feel outraged or even depressed? The voter may cynically conclude the noise that ideology creates (socialism, secularism, Lohia-vaad, Hindutva etc.) in our everyday discourse is perhaps a smokescreen behind which there is only the wild dance of mammon. Watch the gloom percolate in the comments section of newspapers and online platforms.

Politics should be built around hope, not a bribe or allurement. But when hope vanishes, even a government with strong numbers can crumble in the minds of people. The more optimistic may, however, predict that this makes space for a new force, a new reconciler, and a new prophet of sorts. Like it was told in the Bhagavad Gita that whenever there is adharma, the lord makes an appearance. In an earlier time, pre-June 2024, the central government may have operated with a messianic language and machinery, but the 240-effect in the parliamentary polls has made them reluctant participants. They simply await an implosion to step in.

Until then, perhaps solace may be found in Purandara Dasa, who sang in the 16th century: "It makes me laugh as I see all people of the world whip up scams."

LEADERSHIP SKILLS FOR NAVIGATING TURBULENCE

R GOPALAKRISHNAN

Author and business commentator whose latest book Jamsetji Tata: Powerful Learnings for Corporate Success is co-authored with Harish Bhat

BUILDING BUSINESSES

WHILE change is undoubtedly accelerating exponentially, the tools to cope with it are also accelerating equally fast. Perhaps the gap between them is constant.

Most of us are convinced we are living amid never-before turbulent times. It is true, but only partially. What do we mean when we say 'never-before turbulence'? When Covid occurred, it was seen as a 'once in a century' event.

Think back to your parents' and grandparents' times. Did they not sincerely believe their times were turbulent? When partition occurred in 1947, it was a 'once in a civilisation' event.

Contemporary futurologists and visionaries persuade us that AI, ESG, EV, quantum computing and alternative energy will irreversibly change our lives. Leaders naturally feel challenged, if not stressed. The perception of challenge and stress may be more manageable if leaders could remember that times were always turbulent.

Historian Ian Mortimer's book, Centuries of Change (2015), takes you on a whirlwind tour of the last 10 centuries and pits one century against others to explore which saw the greatest change—a complex and subjective exercise. If I had to summarise the findings of the book, it is that the answer depends on how you look at it. In medicine, it may be one century (think anaesthetics), while in travelling to new lands (think ships), it may be another. If the turbulence of change is measured by the number of people impacted (printing press), then it is one century, but if it is by amount of money spent (space travel), it may be another. Is it likely each generation views its own period as being the most turbulent? Most likely, yes.

On the flip side, it must be noted that the tools for people to cope with change have also improved dramatically. For example, keeping track of when a relative from another city or village would arrive at your home two hundred years ago was vastly different from the tools one would use today.

Then why all this fuss and dire warnings about 'change or perish', 'move fast', and 'break things'? It is intriguing to consider if the challenge to cope with turbulent times has been so over centuries, what should people obsess about? The turbulence of change? Or the gap between the change and the tools to cope with it? In my recent book Embrace the Future, I have considered what an organisational response could be. However, that is not the point of this article.

This article is about leadership in turbulent times. Leadership is about human activity, not intellectual and cognitive activities. It is about relational and inspirational activity. It is about being aware and intuitive, rather than rational and analytical. Our brain has evolved far less in recent times compared to technology—it resembles the brain of our ancestors, quite unlike the turbulent changes we experience.

BYJU'S

> Company leaders need to adapt to the turbulence inevitably caused by acquisitions, downsizing and restructuring. We have seen several recent examples of such stormy weather in CG Power, HP and H2O. Byju's saw the downfall of a celebrated startup founder going crazy about growth

It is appropriate to reflect on technological changes, but equally important to remember it is through the lagging human brain that we can successfully adapt to change. I wonder whether the 'phase lag', to use an electrical engineering jargon, between technology and brain change gets as much attention during leadership training courses. Leaders in business and management, apart from technological changes, need to comprehend and adapt to organisational turbulence caused by mergers, acquisitions, downsizing, restructuring, and other such activities. I would like to focus on these kinds of turbulences.

That the subject merits debate is evident from the happenings around us. We saw the case of a promoter-chairman colluding with the CEO and CFO of his listed company to siphon off funds into hidden crevices (CG Power). We saw the downfall of a celebrated startup founder going crazy about growth through acquisitions and reorganisations (Byju's). We read about a racy financier with a criminal past buying bonds and stocks through cooked-up valuations and concealing matters from the regulator (H2O). We learned that Mars, a confectionary company, acquired Kellanova, a snacks company, for an astronomical sum that may well turn out to be great; but the move has put both companies' employees in uncertainty for several months, maybe even years.

There are complications with leadership succession. Consider Starbucks, which has 'run through' three or four CEOs in just six years. Increasingly, the CEO is hired and tasked by boards as though he or she is a prima donna, a genius who can raise stock prices quickly, quickly bring order to a colossal disorder that has developed over decades, manage the ambiguity of a former CEO who 'will not go away' while the board pretends to delegate autonomy.

There are acquisition and merger turbulences that the contemporary CEO must cope with. Reflect on the unfortunate death of Mike Lynch, a central person in HP's acquisition of Autonomy for about $11 billion 2011. After a year, HP fired CEO Leo Apotheker for having overpaid for the acquisition. Then the company began legal processes against Autonomy leaders. Autonomy CFO Sushovan Hassan was jailed.

Autonomy financial executive Steve Chamberlain and chief executive Mike Lynch faced legal processes in the US for 12 years. The court did not uphold the charges against them. A day before the 13th anniversary of the sale, co-defendant Steve Chamberlain died when a car hit him in the UK. A day after the anniversary, Mike Lynch sank to his death in a tragedy that occurred to his sailing boat.

Influencing votes

DMK's two-day conference on Lord Muruga is a calculated move to dilute the emerging vote base of the BJP. If the individual vote share of the saffron party rises by 2 to 3 percent in two years, it would nullify the edge the DMK has. The party is not prepared to take the risk.

Let's become rational and be ready to not take abnormalities as the new normal.

In Brunei, PM says looking forward to strong relations

First bilateral visit by an Indian PM to the southeast Asian nation

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PM Narendra Modi receives Guard of Honour upon his arrival in Brunei on Tuesday | PTI

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said he was looking forward to strong ties with Brunei as he reached there on a two-day visit. This was the first-ever bilateral trip by an Indian Prime Minister to the southeast Asian nation.

"Landed in Brunei Darussalam. Looking forward to strong ties between our two nations especially in boosting commercial and cultural linkages. I thank Crown Prince Haji Al Muhtadee Billah for receiving me at the airport," Modi said. His visit marks 40 years of diplomatic ties between the two nations. Modi was invited to Brunei by Sultan Haji Hassanal Bolkiah.

Modi visited the iconic Omar Ali Saifuddien Mosque in Brunei, which was built by the current Sultan's father. He also inaugurated the new chancery premises of the High Commission of India. At both places, he interacted with the Indian diaspora whose strength is around 14,000.

"Delighted to inaugurate the new Chancery of the High Commission of India, indicative of our stronger ties with Brunei Darussalam. This will also be serving our diaspora," Modi said in another X post.

The PM lit a lamp and unveiled a plaque, inaugurating the chancery premises, which embodies a "profound sense of Indianness, masterfully integrating traditional motifs and lush tree plantations," the Ministry of External Affairs said.

Brunei is an important partner in India's 'Act East' Policy and Indo-Pacific Vision. India and Brunei enjoy a friendly relationship marked by mutual respect and understanding on bilateral and multilateral issues. The two countries are linked by history, culture and tradition spanning a millennium, MEA officials said.

Brunei is a key partner for India in the ASEAN region. It is also a partner country in the Nalanda University project.

Bilateral trade between the two countries was $286.20 million in 2023-24. An MoU for implementation of defence cooperation was renewed in 2021. India imports crude from Brunei and since there is a surge in gas consumption, there could be an increase in hydrocarbon imports, officials said.

From Brunei, Modi will travel to Singapore, where he will meet President Tharman Shanmugaratnam and Prime Minister Lawrence Wong.

Netflix promise: Will keep nation's sentiments in mind

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

FACING criticism for not revealing the real identities of the hijackers in its latest web series IC-814: The Kandahar Hijack and subsequent pressure from the Centre, the OTT giant Netflix on Tuesday updated the opening disclaimer to include the real and code names of the hostage-takers.

The development came a day after the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting (I&B) summoned Netflix India head Monika Shergill to explain the controversy surrounding the depiction of the hijackers in the series.

"For the benefit of audiences unfamiliar with the 1999 hijacking of Indian Airlines Flight 814, the opening disclaimer has been updated to include the real and code names of hijackers. The code names reflect those used during the actual event," read a statement issued by Shergill, Vice President (Content) at Netflix India, after a meeting with I&B secretary Sanjay Jaju.

The series has been accused of distorting facts and presenting a contentious depiction of characters. The show, based on the infamous 1999 hijacking of Indian Airlines Flight 814, is currently streaming on Netflix.

"India has a rich culture of storytelling, and we are committed to showcasing these stories with authentic representation," Shergill added.

In a stern message to the OTT platform, top representatives of the ministry on Monday emphasized that in the name of creativity, no one can play with the sentiments of the country.

The series came under intense scrutiny after criticism emerged that the makers had deliberately changed the names of the hijackers, associated with Pakistan-based terror group Harkat-ul-Mujahideen, to 'Bhola' and 'Shankar'.

So much in a name

Netflix's six-episode series IC-814: The Kandahar Hijack came under intense scrutiny after criticism emerged from several quarters that the makers of the series had deliberately changed the names of the plane's hijackers, associated with the Pakistan-based terror group Harkat-ul-Mujahideen, to "Bhola" and "Shankar," which are Hindu names.

'Emergency': HC asks CBFC to look at Sikh objections

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

The Board (CBFC) shall consider objections to the unreleased film and take expeditious appropriate steps in respect of the trailer

Madhya Pradesh High Court

Objection

The petitioners submitted that even the film's trailer has objectionable scenes that portray Sikh community in bad light and may create a divide between the Sikhs and Hindus. He sought the film's trailer be removed immediately.

WHILE not issuing directions to stop the release of Emergency, directed and starred by actor-politician Kangana Ranaut, the Madhya Pradesh High Court on Tuesday disposed of a PIL filed by two Sikh organisations.

The Central Board of Film Certification (CBFC) informed the court that the movie is yet to be certified for release and is still under examination. This meant that the film, facing protests from the Sikh community, will not be released on September 6.

A division bench comprising acting Chief Justice Sanjeev Sachdeva and Justice Vinay Saraf, while disposing of the PIL, permitted the petitioners — the Jabalpur Sikh Sangat and Sri Guru Singh Sabha, Indore — to file a comprehensive representation containing objections before the CBFC within three days.

The court further mentioned in its four-page order that "upon receiving the representation, the Board shall consider the objections to the unreleased film and also take expeditious appropriate steps in respect of the trailer."

The HC said, "Needless to state that this court has neither considered nor commented on the merits of the contentions of either parties. All rights and contentions of parties are reserved."

Earlier, during the hearing of the PIL, the lawyers appearing for the Central government and CBFC informed the court that the movie has not yet been certified and is under examination unfder Cinematograph Act and the Cinematograph (Certification) Rules.

The petitioners' lawyer NS Ruprah submitted that a representation was sent to CBFC chairman on August 30, objecting to the film's release.

DAC fast-tracks ₹1.4L cr defence purchases

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Defence Acquisition Council (DAC) on Tuesday approved ₹1,44,716 crore worth proposals for procurement of battle tanks, radars, aircraft and patrol vessels.

The DAC, chaired by defence minister Rajnath Singh accorded Acceptance of Necessity for 10 capital acquisition proposals for procurement of seven most modern stealth frigates, Future Ready Combat Vehicles (FRCV), air defence fire control radars, Dornier-228 aircraft, next generation fast patrol and offshore patrol vessels.

Of the total cost of the projects, 99% is from indigenous sources under the Buy (Indian) and Buy (Indian-Indigenously Designed Developed and Manufactured) categories.

Adding to the combat capabilities of the Indian Navy, approval was given for seven more advanced stealth frigates — each with around 8,000 tonnes displacement — under the Project 17 Bravo (B). This has an outlay of ₹70,000 crore.

Another proposal was for procurement of FRCVs for the Army, which would modernise its armoured tank fleet. The FRCV will be a futuristic main battle tank with superior mobility, all-terrain ability, multi-layered protections, precision and lethal fires and real-time situational awareness.

The approval was also given to procure air defence fire control radars, which will detect and track aerial targets and provide firing solutions.

Three approvals were given to enhance the capabilities of Indian Coast Guard. The procurement of Dornier-228 aircraft, next generation fast patrol vessels with high operational features in rough weather conditions, and offshore patrol vessels with advanced technology and enhanced long-range operations, will enhance the capability of ICG to carry out multifarious operations.

Future-ready combat vehicles: The futuristic main battle tank has superior mobility, all-terrain ability, multi-layered protections, and precision and lethal fires. 1,770 FRCVs to be procured in three phases by 2030
Air defence fire control radars: These will detect and track aerial targets and provide firing solutions
Dornier-228 aircraft: A twin-engine general purpose aircraft, capable of transporting up to 19 passengers or various cargoes
Next-gen fast patrol and offshore patrol vessels: FPVs with high operational features in rough weather conditions and OPVs with long-range operations to enhance the capability of ICG

Navy gets fresh boost to combat drones by DRDO

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

IN a step to beef up the counter-drone combat capabilities of the Indian Navy warships, the Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) on Tuesday handed over the production document of 30mm High Explosive Preformed Fragmentation (HEPF) Shell to Director General of Naval Armament Inspection.

The handing over was done a ceremony organised at Armament Research and Development Establishment, a Pune-based DRDO laboratory in Pune, which developed the 30-mm HEPF shell.

As per the Defence Ministry, the features of HEPF shell are similar to the in-service ammunition so that it can be fired from existing AK-630 Naval gun onboard all warships. They yield better fragmentation lethality, making it effective for neutralisation of drone swarms.

Govt not keen to give House panel chief posts to Oppn, says Tharoor

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AMID reports of tussle between the Centre and the Opposition over parliamentary standing committee chairperson posts, Congress MP Shashi Tharoor on Tuesday said that "it only reflects the government's growing insecurity, rather than any accumulation of wisdom or confidence after 10 years in power."

Even months after the third Modi government assumed office in June, the Lok Sabha Speaker is yet to constitute the department-related standing committees.

In a post on micro-blogging site X, Tharoor said it is disappointing that the government appears to have no idea of the purpose of parliamentary committees, which is to provide an additional layer of scrutiny and accountability for the government without the political grandstanding often associated with publicly televised Parliament sessions.

"To attempt to deny Opposition parties any say in matters of national importance and sensitivity, is to defeat the very logic of having such committees at all," the former Union minister said.

To attempt to deny Opposition parties any say in matters of national importance and sensitivity, is to defeat the very logic of having such (parliamentary) committees at all

Shashi Tharoor, Congress MP

A resurgent Opposition was to get more representation in various parliamentary panels such as the standing committees, privilege committees and select committees.

However, sources attribute the delay in setting up the committees to lack of consensus between the Opposition and the government regarding the chairmanship of key panels such defence, external affairs, and finance. Sources said that though the Congress, with 101 members, demanded the chairman posts of some key panels, the government was unwilling to concede their demand.

"Today, we have 101 MPs and are they reluctant to give us any important committee?" asked Tharoor.

This suggests a deplorably changed mentality on their part and only reflects their growing insecurity, rather than any accumulation of wisdom or confidence after 10 years in government, Tharoor added.

Incidentally, in the entire history of parliamentary committees, external affairs was always headed by an Opposition MP until, for the first time in 2019, a BJP MP was asked to take it over, he said.

Neighbourhood watch: Bangla interim govt hurries to mend bridges with Pak

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

Muhammad Yunus, Chief Adviser to interim government of Bangladesh

THE interim government of Bangladesh seems eager to change its history by mending bridges with its once arch-rival, Pakistan.

Advisor in the interim government, Nahid Islam, on Monday said that his government wanted to resolve the 1971 Liberation War "issue" with Pakistan. According to sources in Dhaka, Islam met with Pakistan's High Commissioner in Dhaka, Syed Ahmed Maroof, and communicated this to him.

"For the Awami League, 1971 was considered 'the last chapter of history'. However, we (the interim government) view it as a continuation of history. We want to resolve the 1971 issue with Pakistan," Islam said. He is a 26-year-old student activist who has now been appointed as the Adviser for Information and Broadcasting.

The interim government is also looking at changing the core of the Awami League, which is why they turned a blind eye towards the vandalisation of statues and museums of the country's founder, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman.

"The dangerous precedent that is being set up by some stalwarts where they are rapidly trying to build bridges with Pakistan shows it is being done in a hurry," Professor Nazmul Ahsan Kalimullah, a political commentator from Dhaka, told this newspaper.

Pakistan has felt a sense of victory in this recent change of regime in Bangladesh. Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif had justified the vandalism of Bangabandhu's statues earlier. Pakistan's envoy has also said Bangladeshis can travel visa-free to Pakistan, and that direct flights will soon resume.

Meanwhile, in the meeting with Islam, Pakistan's High Commissioner expressed his country's keenness to resolve the Liberation War issue with Bangladesh.

"We wanted to resolve the 1971 issue. However, the previous government did not provide us with any opportunity for discussion and deliberately kept the issue alive. This matter could have been resolved long ago. We are interested in establishing relations with Bangladesh," High Commissioner Maroof said.

Pakistan has offered to help Bangladesh, which is reeling under floods.

Islam also said his government was considering establishing strong ties with other countries in South Asia.

Pak keen too

MP rapped for 8-yr custody of man in chit fund case

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday came down heavily on the state of Madhya Pradesh for keeping a person behind bars (in custody) for eight long years in connection with a chit-fund fraud case, while granting him bail in the matter.

"How can you (MP Police) keep someone behind bars (in custody) like this for so many years, and the trial is pending?" a bench of the top court, led by Justice JB Pardiwala, observed and slammed the state police for this kind of act on the accused, DK Singh.

"We are granting the accused bail. He has been in custody for the past eight years," the top court said.

Around 30 out of 77 witnesses have been examined, the counsel of the MP government informed the top court.

Hearing the submissions, a visibly upset Justice Pardiwala, even questioned, "Let it be 777 witnesses. It even doesn't matter. You took eight years to get only 20 witnesses examined. The chargesheet was filed four years back in the case against the accused person. Eight long years have gone by. The man has been in custody since then," the apex court observed.

Justifying its stand in keeping the accused in custody for so long, the lawyer further submitted to the apex court that there were 11 criminal antecedents as well in the case.

"If you are saying that there are FIRs (First Information Report) registered against him on the same offence, then that cannot be called antecedents," Justice Pardiwala said.

In a recent judgment, the SC, while granting bail to an accused person, observed that "bail is the rule, jail is the exception" has been a guiding principle in Indian criminal jurisprudence, particularly emphasizing the protection of personal liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution.

The principle underscores that the right to bail should not be lightly denied and that the deprivation of liberty should be a last resort, exercised only under compelling circumstances.

SC moved by woman's fight against divorce

A woman fighting a protracted legal battle against a family court granting the decree of divorce in favour of her estranged husband thrice has moved the apex court to the extent that it said the judicial system was "grossly injudicious" to her. The woman, who got married in 1991, gave birth to a son a year later and was deserted by her husband. The family court in Karnataka did not regard that he was not paying maintenance to her or their minor child.

SC notice to Bihar legislative council

The top court on Tuesday sought the response of Bihar Legislative Council after RJD leader Ram Bali Singh filed a plea challenging his disqualification as an MLC. The two-judge bench issued notices to the state legislative council, its secretary, and the complainant. The court posted the matter for further hearing on October 25. Singh's appeal challenged an order of the Patna High Court which had dismissed his plea against disqualification.

4 axed women judicial officers reinstated: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Madhya Pradesh High Court has reinstated four women civil judges who were previously terminated due to alleged unsatisfactory performance, the court registry informed the Supreme Court on Tuesday.

This development follows the Supreme Court's suo motu cognizance in January, when it questioned the termination of six women civil judges by the Madhya Pradesh government.

A bench comprising Justices BV Nagarathna and N Kotiswar Singh was informed that the Madhya Pradesh High Court, in a full court meeting, decided to reinstate four of the six women judges. These judges will be reinstated as Civil Judge Junior Division with a one-year probation period but without back wages.

"The reinstated judicial officers will be placed at the bottom of their respective batches, and their original seniority will be restored upon confirmation," stated lawyer Tanvi Dubey.

BODY FOUND

The body of a 28-year-old woman with her hands and legs tied to a huge stone, was found in a stream in Palghar of Maharashtra, police said on Tuesday. The victim's two-year-old daughter was also found missing.

Bengal not supporting CISF staff: Centre to SC

Says para-military personnel deployed at RG Kar Medical College facing difficulties in performing duties

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

People form a human chain at EM Bypass to protest against the rape-murder of a trainee doctor in Kolkata on Tuesday | PTI

THE Centre on Tuesday moved the Supreme Court saying the Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) personnel posted at the RG Kar Medical College Hospital in Kolkata are facing many difficulties due to non-availability of accommodation, security gadgets and paucity of transportation.

The CISF deployment at the hospital was ordered by the Supreme Court days after outrage over the rape-murder of a trainee doctor inside the government-run facility.

The Centre sought direction to West Bengal to extend full cooperation to the CISF and ensure full compliance, in letter and spirit, of the order dated August 20 or face contempt proceedings.

The Centre, accused the state government of willingly not making efforts towards finding a solution to the problem and rather, causing injustice to the residents of its own state.

The Centre's application cited problems caused to especially the women contingent, "which is highly detrimental considering the present situation in West Bengal," it said.

For 184 personnel of various ranks including 54 female staff, Kolkata police have provided only two buses, one MLV and one pickup van. The number of vehicles and other logistical support requested by the CISF was much larger. Further, no accommodation or security gadget has been provided by the police, the Centre said.

The Union government alleged "unexpected, unjustifiable and unpardonable acts of the state government", saying it would be in the interest of justice to all that the state government extends cooperation to the CISF, so that its personnel are able to perform their duty without any inconvenience. It said.

"A state government, duly elected by the people of the State, is supposed to be fair in its conduct, especially when it concerns the security of its residents," it added.

Assembly clears anti-rape bill, Mamata targets Modi & Shah

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

THE West Bengal Assembly on Tuesday unanimously passed the state anti-rape Bill that seeks capital punishment for rape convicts if their actions result in the victim's death or leave her in a vegetative state and life sentence without parole for other perpetrators.

Other significant features of the 'Aparajita Woman and Child Bill (West Bengal Criminal Laws and Amendment) Bill 2024' include the completion of probes into rape cases within 21 days of the initial report, a reduction from the previous two-month deadline, and a special task force where women officers will lead investigations.

The proposed law, which requires assent from the Bengal Governor and then the President, when enacted, would mark a significant development in the state's legal framework against sexual crimes.

Centre must move now, says Abhishek

Shortly after the passage of the Bill, TMC's national general secretary Abhishek Banerjee, in a post on X, stressed the need for such laws given the appalling frequency with which rapes are committed in this country. The Centre must now take decisive action to ensure that justice is both swift and severe," he stated.

Speaking during the discussion on the Bill, moved by state law minister Moloy Ghatak at the assembly's special session, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee termed the proposed legislation as "historic" and demanded the resignation of PM Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah and the chief ministers of all states that have "not been able to implement effective legislations to safeguard women."

The Bill also proposed to amend the newly passed Bharatiya Nyay Sanhita 2023, Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 laws, and the POCSO Act 2012 "in their application to the state of West Bengal to enhance punishment and to constitute the framework for... expeditious investigation and trial of the heinous act of violence against women and children."

During the debate after the Bill was tabled, leader of the Opposition Suvendu Adhikari proposed seven amendments, including one that said police and health officials should be identified and punished if they are involved in delaying justice or tampering with evidence.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee said the first three amendments proposed by Adhikari would be accepted if they were not already in the BNS.

Playwright returns TMC govt award

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

CHANDAN Sen, an acclaimed playwright, on Tuesday, announced that he was returning a state award conferred to him in 2017 by the West Bengal government to express solidarity with the protesting junior doctors and medical students over the R.G Kar Medical College and Hospital rape-murder case.

Sen was conferred the 'Dinabandhu Mitra Award', the state's highest award in the field of theatre, in 2017, which he now wants to return to the state government along with the award money by cheque.

"I feel insulted how a legislator made sweeping comments yesterday about the recipients of the state awards who are protesting on the R.G. Kar issue now. Hence, I will return the award and the award money of ₹25,000 to the state government. I want to stay just as one of the protesters. I have already forwarded an email communique to the state government," Sen said. On Monday, while addressing a gathering, actor-turned-politician and Trinamool Congress legislator Kanchan Mallick raised questions about the celebrities protesting on the R.G. Kar incident and asked whether they will return their state awards.

However, in the face of large-scale criticism even from people from his fraternity, Mallick later tendered a public apology. A theatre group based out of Malda also returned the state's donation cheque for organising a theatre fair in the district.

Ex-principal remanded in 8-day police custody

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

'Larger nexus'

The Alipore court granted the CBI the custody of the former principal of RG Kar Medical College and Hospital, Dr Sandip Ghosh and three others in the corruption case. During the hearing, the CBI said there is a large nexus that needs to be exposed, hence, interrogation. "We have arrested just four people. There is a larger nexus. We need to have them in custody to unearth the entire nexus," it stated.

IN a significant development, the former principal of RG Kar Medical College and Hospital, Dr Sandip Ghosh, was sent to eight-day police custody on Tuesday for his alleged involvement in financial irregularities at the facility.

The Alipore court granted the CBI the custody of Ghosh and three others in the corruption case. During the hearing, the CBI said there is a large nexus that needs to be exposed, hence, interrogation. "We have arrested just four people. There is a larger nexus. We need their custody to unearth the entire nexus," it stated.

Earlier in the day, Ghosh and three others were brought to the court after the CBI anti-corruption branch arrested them on Monday night. Just after an hour of Ghosh's arrest, the CBI officers picked up his security guardand two vendors who used to supply materials to the hospital, where the body of a woman medic was found on August 9.

On Monday, the probe agency arrested Ghosh and three others in connection with the case. Senior CBI officials identified the other three arrested as Ghosh's security guard Afsar Ali (44), and hospital vendors Biplav Singha (52) and Suman Hazara (46) who used to supply material to the hospital. Monday was the 15th day of Ghosh's questioning by the agency. From the agency's Salt Lake office, the 53-year-old was taken to the CBI's Nizam Palace office in Kolkata.

HC raps Shinde govt over Badlapur mishandling

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Bombay High Court on Tuesday reprimanded the Maharashtra government for its mishandling and lacklustre approach in the investigation of the sexual assault of two minor girls by a male toilet cleaner at a school in Badlapur, near Thane.

The court also expressed serious concerns regarding the Maharashtra police's handling of the case, highlighting flaws in the implementation of the POCSO (Protection of Children from Sexual Offences) Act. The court was particularly troubled by the fact that some of the accused, including Adarsh School's president Uday Kotwal and secretary Tushar Apate, remain absconding.

During the hearing of a petition concerning the sexual assault of several nursery-level children at the school, the Bombay High Court directed the Maharashtra government to form a committee to suggest standard operating procedures for the police, hospitals, and schools while investigating sexual assaults on minors. The court recommended including retired IPS officer Meera Borwankar, former Bombay High Court judge Sadhana Jadhav, and Shalini Phasalkar Joshi as members of this committee to enforce POCSO rules.

The court criticised the progress of the investigation as "unsatisfactory" and urged the authorities to conduct a thorough and sincere investigation. It pointed out several flaws in the report submitted by the state government, including incomplete sentences and a generally haphazard approach.

The court noted that since the last hearing, three key actions had been taken: a test identification parade, forensic analysis, and the examination of call detail records (CDRs).

The Badlapur incident has sparked widespread protests against the government, with demands from opposition parties for the resignation of Home Minister Devendra Fadnavis due to the perceived failure in maintaining law and order and the inability to apprehend and punish the culprits. Despite the passage of several days since the crime, some of the accused, including school trustees, remain at large.

Council school teachers to get national award

Two teachers from council schools in Pratapgarh and Mirzapur have been selected for the 'prestigious National Teacher Award-2024'. On Teachers' Day, September 5, they will be honoured at Vigyan Bhavan, New Delhi. The selected teachers are Shyam Prakash Maurya from Upper Primary School Malhupur, Mandhata Block, Pratapgarh, and Ravikant Dwivedi from Primary School Bhagesar, Mirzapur. Teachers have been selected for recognition for using Power Point presentations and innovative 'Mathematics Garden' where digital classrooms were used to teach students.

26 'indisciplined' doctors fired

In a bid to spruce up the health services and tightening the screws, Deputy CM Brajesh Pathak, who also helms the medical and health portfolio, has come down cracking on the doctors in various government hospitals terminating 26 of them, citing 'long absence from duty and failure to follow directives of senior officials.' The doctors, who faced the axe, are mainly posted in Community Health Centres (CHC) in a number of districts including Jalaun, Bareilly, Mainpuri, Siddharthnagar, Lalitpur, Ballia, Basti, Rae Bareli, Mathura and Firozabad.

Thieves make rescue call to cops to disperse mob

Thieves, on a buffalo theft spree, were caught by villagers and on finding themselves surrounded by angry mob, called up the police for rescue in Bhamora police station area, in Bareilly. The situation unfolded when the villagers of Gaushganj caught two thieves who had entered the village to steal the cattle. Fearing for their lives, one of the thieves dialed 112, the emergency police number, pleading for help. Responding to the distress call, a Police Response Vehicle (PRV) was dispatched to the scene. Upon arrival, the police found the thieves in the grip of mob. The mob was so massive that the PRV officers had to call for support.

Mistaken for smuggler, 19-yr-old killed by cow vigilantes in Haryana

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A 19-year old Class 12 student of Faridabad in Haryana was allegedly chased in a car and shot dead by suspected cow vigilantes who mistook him for a cattle smuggler, police said on Tuesday, adding that all the five accused were arrested.

During interrogation, the accused claimed that on the night of August 23, they had received information that some suspected cattle smugglers driving two SUVs were doing recce in Faridabad, according to police sources.

They mistook the victim, Aryan Mishra, and his friends, Shanky and Harshit, for cattle smugglers and followed their car for about 30 kilometres near the Gadhpuri toll on the Delhi-Agra National Highway, the sources said.

The accused told the police that when they asked Mishra and his friends to stop their car, the driver accelerated, following which they opened fire and Mishra was killed on the spot near the Gadhpuri toll in Palwal, they said.

All the accused — Anil Kaushik, Varun, Krishna, Adesh, and Saurabh — were arrested on August 28. They have been sent to judicial custody after the police remand expired, police said, adding that the illegal weapon and the car used in the crime have been recovered.

"They fired four bullets from a weapon which was not licensed and two hit the deceased. The weapon has been sent for forensic examination. While Shanky, who was with Mishra, was wanted in an attempt to murder case and the case was going on, so they thought the other group had tried to attack him and hence they sped away," a police officer said.

Coast Guard chopper makes 'hard' landing in Arabian Sea, 3 go missing

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THREE crew members went missing after an Indian Coast Guard (ICG) helicopter on a rescue mission crashed into the Arabian Sea off Porbandar coast in Gujarat, officials said on Tuesday.

The incident occurred on Monday night after the agency launched an operation around 11 pm to evacuate an injured crew member on board a tanker which was sailing close to Porbandar, the ICG said in a statement.

While one of the four crew members on board the ICG's advanced light helicopter (ALH) was rescued, a search operation was on for three others, it said.

"On September 2, 2024, India Coast Guard ALH helicopter was launched at 2300 hrs to evacuate an injured crew member from the Motor Tanker Hari Leela off Porbandar, Gujarat. The helicopter had a crew of 4 people. The helicopter had to make an emergency hard landing and ditched into the sea. One crew member recovered, search for the remaining three crew members is in progress. The incident occurred when the helicopter was approaching the ship for evacuation," the ICG said in a statement posted on X. The agency added that it has deployed four ships and two aircraft to search and rescue the missing crew members.

Heavy rain has wreaked havoc in Gujarat. Due to this, flood-like conditions have been seen in many regions. Amid recent heavy rains in Gujarat, the Indian Coast Guard evacuated 19 people from Mahiyari, Nayad Vistar, and Dharsan villages on August 29, followed by the rescue of another 31 stranded villagers from Parida and Mufatnagar. So far, the ICG has rescued or evacuated a total of 111 people in the ongoing operation.

The ALH-DHRUV is a twin-engine utility aircraft developed indigenously by Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL), built for versatile roles and multi-mission capabilities.

Hemant calls 'courtesy' meet with Kharge, Rahul ahead of Assembly polls

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

JHARKHAND Chief Minister Hemant Soren on Tuesday met Congress National President Mallikarjun Kharge and Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi in New Delhi ahead of the upcoming Assembly polls in the state.

After a long discussion, the agenda of the meeting has not yet been officially revealed. However, sources claimed that the strategy for winning assembly polls, strengthening the alliance and several other related issues were discussed during the meeting.

Soren, however, termed it a courtesy call and said that the talks on Jharkhand Assembly elections will be held soon with Congress and other the coalition partners.

"I wanted to meet Rahul Ji and Kharge Ji for a long time, but I was not getting time. Now, we will meet and talk about the Jharkhand elections," he told reporters in Delhi. They will run the government with full strength and also win the elections in future, he added.

On the question of RSS statement on caste census, he said that since they (BJP) are in opposition, they have to give statements; we have to continue with our work. Sources in the JMM hinted that the party is readying for seat distribution formula ahead of the state Assembly polls and Soren's meeting with the senior Congress leaders is linked with the same.

"A core committee will soon be formed comprising members of JMM, Congress, RJD, left and other parties of the coalition to finalise the seat sharing agreement," said a senior JMM functionary, adding, "JMM, being the largest party here, will obviously play role of big brother in seat sharing."

Xavier Bertrand leads the race to become the PM of France

PARIS

FRANCE's President Emmanuel Macron was on Tuesday considering a former right-wing minister to lead a new government after almost two months of deadlock, sources with knowledge of the discussions said.

The search has been on for a new premier after the left in early July became the largest bloc in a hung parliament after snap polls, followed by Macron's centrists and the far right. Prime Minister Gabriel Attal has resigned but stayed on as a caretaker during the Olympics and Paralympics.

But the pressure is mounting to name a new premier by October 1, when a fresh government must file a draft budget law for 2025, a task that Attal's cabinet cannot accomplish.

The president on Monday met ex-minister Xavier Bertrand, from the right, as well as former premier Bernard Cazeneuve, from the centre left, as two potential candidates.

He was still "testing both hypotheses" on Tuesday, sources at the presidency said.

Leaders of the right-wing Republicans (LR) party in a meeting with Macron on Tuesday morning said they supported a nomination of Bertrand as long as he had sufficient backing from lawmakers, LR sources.

But in a blow to his chances, the far-right National Rally (RN), the largest single faction in the new National Assembly with 126 seats, said it would back a no-confidence motion against Bertrand if he was appointed. "The wind seems to be blowing in Xavier Bertrand's favour," the source said.

Bertrand, 59, is the right-wing head of the northern Hauts-de-France region. AFP

50 killed, 219 injured as Russian missiles hit military unit, hospital

The strike on the central-eastern city of Poltava came on the day Putin visited Mongolia

POLTAVA

TWO ballistic missiles blasted a military training facility and nearby hospital Tuesday in Ukraine, killing at least 50 people and wounding more than 219 others, Ukrainian officials said, in one of the deadliest Russian strikes since the war began. The strike hit the central-eastern city of Poltava, the capital of the region of the same name, partially destroying a building used by the Poltava Military Institute of Communications, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said.

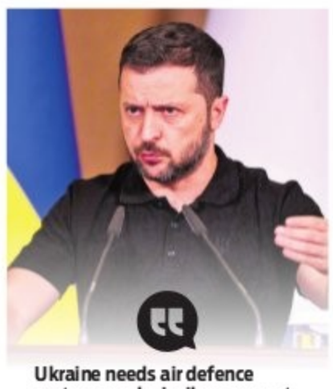
"People found themselves under the rubble. Many were saved," Zelenskyy said in a video posted on his Telegram channel. He said ordered "a full and prompt investigation." Shattered bricks were visible inside the closed gates of the institution, which was off-limits to the media, and pools of blood could be seen just outside. Hours after the missile strikes, the smell of smoke had spread through town. Roads were covered in glass shards from shattered windows.

Poltava Gov Filip Pronin announced said 219 people were wounded. Up to 18 people may be buried under the rubble, he said. Poltava is about 350 kms southeast of Kyiv, on the main highway and rail route between Kyiv and Ukraine's second-largest city, Kharkiv, which is close to the Russian border.

The missiles hit shortly after an air-raid alert sounded, when many people were on their way to a bomb shelter, Ukraine's Defense Ministry said, describing the strike as "barbaric."

Rescue crews and medics saved 25 people, including 11 who were dug out of the rubble, a Defense Ministry statement said. Poltava Gov Filip Pronin announced three days of mourning starting Wednesday.

"A great tragedy for Poltava region and entire Ukraine," Pronin wrote on his Telegram page. "The enemy certainly must answer for all (its) crimes against humanity," he said.



Ukraine needs air defence systems and missiles now, not sitting in storage. Long-range strikes that can protect us from Russian terror are needed now, not later. Every day of delay means more lost lives

- Volodymyr Zelenskyy, Ukraine President

The strike came on the day that Russian President Vladimir Putin visited Mongolia. There was no indication that his hosts would heed demands to arrest him on an international warrant for alleged war crimes.

Zelenskyy repeated his appeal for Ukraine's Western partners to ensure swift delivery of military aid. He has previously chided the U.S. and European countries for being slow to make good on their pledges of help. He also wants them to ease restrictions on what Ukraine can target on Russian soil with the weapons they provide. Some countries fear that hitting Russia could escalate the war.

"Ukraine needs air defense systems and missiles now, not sitting in storage," Zelenskyy wrote. "Long-range strikes that can protect us from Russian terror are needed now, not later. Every day of delay, unfortunately, means more lost lives," he said. AP

COUNTRY NETS 1.3 MN KG OF INVASIVE FISH

The country has netted more than 1.3 million kg of highly destructive blackchin tilapia fish, the government said on Tuesday, as it battles to stamp out the invasive species. Shoals of blackchin tilapia, which can produce up to 500 young at a time, have been found in 19 provinces, damaging ecosystems in rivers, swamps and canals by preying on small fish, shrimp and snail larvae. As well as the ecological impact, the government is worried about the effect on the kingdom's crucial fish-farming industry. In July, the government declared its eradication.

POPE ARRIVES IN JAKARTA FOR 3-DAY VISIT

Pope Francis arrived here on Tuesday to kick off a four-nation tour of the Asia-Pacific that will be the longest and farthest of the 87-year-old's papacy. The head of the Catholics touched down in capital Jakarta for a three-day visit devoted to inter-religious ties, and will then travel to Papua New Guinea, East Timor and Singapore. The 12-day tour will test the pontiff's increasingly fragile health, but he is often energised by being among his flock and he emerged from the 13-hour flight smiling and waving. He disembarked in a wheelchair to an honour guard, greetings by officials. AFP

Netanyahu snubs Biden, says he'll stay the course

JERUSALEM

CONCERN mounted on Tuesday over the chances of securing a Gaza truce, after Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu dismissed making any "concessions" in stalled talks towards a hostage release deal. After a day of nationwide protests on Monday, Netanyahu told a televised press conference he would "not give in to pressure" to renege on demands in indirect negotiations with Hamas to end the war, now in its 11th month.

"These murderers executed six of our hostages," said Netanyahu, who has increasingly faced accusations that he is prolonging the war for political gain.

US President Joe Biden on Monday met negotiators working alongside Qatar and Egypt to try to forge a truce deal, and replied "no" when asked by reporters if he thought Netanyahu was doing enough to secure a hostage deal.

"I will not give in to pressure," Netanyahu told the press conference, saying Israel must control Gaza's border with Egypt to stop Hamas from rearming.

Meanwhile, Israeli forces were operating on Tuesday in the northern West Bank, nearly a week into military raids in the occupied territory that the Palestinian health ministry said killed at least 27.

An Israeli air strike overnight that the military said targeted militants in Tulkarem killed a 15-year-old Palestinian, said a hospital source.

In total, "there are 30 martyrs and about 130 wounded in the West Bank since Wednesday," when the Israeli military launched a series of coordinated raids, the Palestinian health ministry said in a statement.

The toll includes three deaths in the Hebron area in the southern West Bank, in incidents unrelated to the raids in the north. On the seventh day of Israel's major "counter-terrorism" operation in the northern West Bank, the focus remained in the Jenin area.

The military on Monday said its forces had killed 14 militants in Jenin and apprehended "25 terrorists". In a separate incident, a girl was killed. AFP

WHO says polio vax drive in Gaza success

WHO said on Tuesday that its emergency polio vaccination campaign in Gaza has reached more children than expected, with 161,000 receiving their initial dose in the first two days. The WHO added that the first round of the vaccination drive would take another 10 days. The campaign aims to fully vaccinate more than 640,000 children.

129 killed in jail break bid in overcrowded DR Congo prison

KINSHASA

AN attempted jail break from DR Congo's largest prison has left at least 129 people dead and led to women being raped, the interior minister said.

The circumstances around the bid to bust out of the Makala prison in the capital Kinshasa, which holds 10 times the number it is meant to house, in the early hours of Monday remain unclear.

On Monday, witnesses said they had heard gunfire at around 2 am which lasted for several hours in the area of the prison, a popular and residential neighbourhood. Democratic Republic of Congo Interior Minister Jacquemain Shabani in a statement released by video announced a provisional death toll of 129 people.

They included "24 who were shot after warnings", he said.

Family members of prisoners stand outside prison waiting to hear about their safety on Tuesday | AFP

At least 59 others had been wounded and were receiving care, he said, adding that many people had been crushed or suffocated and that a number of women had been raped.

Police cordoned off the streets leading to the prison.

The authorities have given no indication as to how many inmates escaped or attempted to do so.

Government spokesman Patrick Muyaya only said that the security services were at the scene and asked residents not to panic.

A few hours later, he told national television the situation was "under control".

Justice Minister Constant Mutamba later announced on X that inquiries were under way "to identify and severely punish the sponsors of these acts of sabotage".

As well as the human toll, the escape attempt caused damage to buildings.

Part of the prison, mainly housing the administrative offices, was set on fire, the government said.

The prison was already badly damaged during an attack by armed men in 2017, which led to more than 4,000 prisoners escaping, some of them described as "dangerous" by police.

The prison has capacity for 1,500 inmates, but it holds between upto 15,000 prisoners.

After 9 years, 77-yr-old ex-Volkswagen CEO faces trial for dieselgate

BRAUNSCHWEIG

FORMER Volkswagen CEO Martin Winterkorn went on trial Tuesday for his role in the "dieselgate" scandal, nine years after the saga first plunged the German auto titan into crisis.

VW admitted in 2015 that it had installed software to rig emissions levels in millions of vehicles worldwide, setting off one of Germany's biggest post-war industrial scandals.

Martin Winterkorn

Winterkorn faces charges including fraud over the use of the so-called defeat devices, which made cars appear less polluting in lab tests than they were on the road, and could be jailed for up to 10 years if convicted. He resigned as head of the VW group – whose brands range from Porsche and Audi to Skoda and Seat – shortly after the crisis began but attempts to bring him to trial had so far failed.

Now 77, he was supposed to stand trial in 2021 alongside four other VW executives but proceedings against him were split off and postponed due to his poor health.

Upon arrival at the regional court in the city of Braunschweig, close to VW's historic Wolfsburg headquarters, Winterkorn told reporters he was doing "quite well".

He "rejects the accusations levelled against him", his lawyer Felix Doerr told reporters at the court.

He briefly addressed the court at the start of the hearing to confirm his personal details, speaking slowly and leaning on a chair for support. Questions about Winterkorn's health hang over the proceedings, with reports saying he had to undergo an operation in mid-June.

Some 89 hearings have been scheduled through September 2025. Winterkorn faces several charges. He has been accused of conspiracy to commit fraud, with the allegation based on the claim that buyers of some of the group's vehicles were "deceived about their characteristics". AFP

China-linked 'Spamouflage' network mimics Americans online to sway US election

WASHINGTON: WHEN he first emerged on social media, the user known as Harlan claimed to be a New Yorker and an Army veteran who supported Donald Trump for president. Harlan said he was 29, and his profile picture showed a smiling, handsome young man. A few months later, Harlan underwent a transformation. Now, he claimed to be 31 and from Florida. New research into Chinese isinformation networks targeting American voters shows Harlan's claims were as fictitious as his profile picture, which analysts think was created using artificial intelligence. As voters prepare to cast their ballots this fall, China has been making its own plans, cultivating networks of fake social media users designed to mimic Americans. Whoever or wherever he really is, Harlan is a small part of a larger effort by US adversaries to use social media to influence and upend America's political debate. The account was traced back to Spamouflage, a Chinese disinformation group, by analysts at Graphika, a New York-based firm that tracks online networks. Known to online researchers for several years, Spamouflage earned its moniker through its habit of spreading large amounts of seemingly unrelated content alongside disinformation. One of the world's largest covert online influence operations run by Chinese state actors has become more aggressive in its efforts to sway US political conversations ahead of the election, Jack Stubbs of Graphika said. ap

Employment in exports sector falling

Direct export jobs fell from peak of 9.5% of domestic employment in 2012 to 6.5% in 2020

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

EMPLOYMENT generation in export-related activities is shrinking in India as it misses out to countries like Vietnam, Bangladesh and even Germany in taking advantage of China's declining share of low-skilled manufacturing exports, the World Bank has said in its latest India Development report.

According to the World Bank, direct employment related to exports has fallen from a peak of 9.5% of total domestic employment in 2012 to 6.5% in 2020. There was a similar trend in indirect employment, which peaked at 9.6% in 2006 and then fell to 6.4% by 2020. The global agency argues that this has happened because the share of low-skilled manufacturing exports has fallen from over 50% in 2012 to around 35% in 2022.

"Because these (exports) sectors are highly capital-intensive, they are ill-suited to employ large shares of the Indian workforce," the World Bank says in its report titled India's Trade Opportunities in a Changing Global Context.

'Low-skilled mfg exports fell to 35% in 2022'

As per the World Bank, direct employment related to exports has fallen from a peak of 9.5% of total domestic employment in 2012 to 6.5% in 2020. There was a similar trend in indirect jobs, which peaked at 9.6% in 2006 and then fell to 6.4% by 2020. The global agency argues that this has happened because the share of low-skilled manufacturing exports has fallen from over 50% in 2012 to around 35% in 2022

The report while raising India's FY25 GDP forecast from 6.6% to 7% noted that to reach its $1 trillion export target by 2030, India needs to diversify its exports and increase its participation in Global Value Chains (GVCs). "Over the past decades, despite rapid overall economic growth, India's trade in goods and services has decreased as a percentage of GDP and India's participation in GVCs has fallen," says the World Bank.

India's share in global exports of labour-intensive manufactured goods like apparel, leather, textiles, and footwear (ALTF) initially grew from 0.9% in 2002 to a peak of 4.5% in 2013, but it subsequently declined to 3.5% in 2022. In contrast, Bangladesh and Vietnam have achieved strong growth, with Bangladesh reaching 5.1% and Vietnam 5.9% of global ALTF exports in 2022.

According to the WB report, capital-intensive sectors in 2020 accounted for 70% of manufacturing GVA and 50% of formal manufacturing job in India. In contrast, labor-intensive sectors, such as apparel and textiles, which account for less than 20% of formal manufacturing GVA, were responsible for over 40% of formal manufacturing jobs.

The report also highlighted India's limited participation in Global value chains.

Green financing framework in 8-10 mnths: Govt

The work on that (climate finance framework) has already started, and we hope to have that in place over the next eight to 10 months

Ajay Seth, secretary, Department of Financial Services

Electrifying vehicles by 2030

The largest space for investment is in the electric vehicles segment at $667 billion as the government has set a target of electrifying its new vehicles by 2030

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE work to frame a taxonomy framework for climate finance has already started, and finance ministry hopes to have that in place over the next 8-10 months, a senior ministry official said on Tuesday.

"In the budget 2025, the finance minister (Nirmala Sitharaman) had announced to come out with taxonomy for climate finance. The work on that has already started, and we hope to have that in place over the next eight to 10 months," Ajay Seth, secretary in the Department of Financial Services, told a CII-organised financing summit here. As per him, the government is interested in "partnering with industry experts to put that taxonomy framework together. It will take eight to 10 months, or maybe six to eight months, but that's an exercise we have started". Many countries have either started work on taxonomy or finalised one. South Africa, Colombia, South Korea, Thailand, Singapore, Canada, and Mexico are some of the countries which have developed taxonomies. The European Union has done this as well.

India needs climate-smart investment potential of $3.1 trillion from 2018 through 2030. As per an International Finance Corporation report. The largest space for investment is in electric vehicles segment at $667 billion as the government has set a target of electrifying its new vehicles by 2030. The renewable energy continues to be a good investment avenue at $403.7 billion, the report added. In the budget for FY25, FM announced the government will develop a 'climate finance taxonomy' to enhance availability of capital for climate adaptation. This will help India achieve climate commitments and green transition.

Govt plans to raise ₹4,700 cr by selling 6.8% stake in GIC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE central government is planning to raise ₹4,700 crore by offloading 6.78% stake in General Insurance Corporation of India (GIC) through Offer for Sale (OFS). The government will divest 3.39% equity with an additional 3.39% as green shoe option. The floor price is fixed at Rs 395 a piece against its last traded price of ₹421.25.

The OFS opens on Wednesday for non-retail investors. Retail investors and employees of GIC can bid for the OFS on Thursday. Retail investors would be offered 10% of the total shares on offer while 0.4% of the shares would be offered to employees. The government currently holds 85.78% in the reinsurance company.

The GIC offer for sale is the first big attempt at divestment by the government in the current financial year. The government has budgeted for Rs 50,000 crore by way of divestment in public sector companies. Previous year, the government could receive only Rs 16,507 crore through sale of shares of PSU companies. In the current financial year, the government is hoping to disinvest three PSUs --IDBI Bank, Shipping Corporation of India and Bharat Earth Movers Ltd. Expression of interests (EoIs) of these companies are already in the pipeline.

GSTN to roll out IMS from October 1 to match invoices

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE GST Network will introduce the Invoice Management System (IMS) on October 1 to assist taxpayers in reconciling their invoices with those issued by their suppliers, ensuring they can accurately claim the correct Input Tax Credit (ITC).

With IMS, taxpayers can effectively manage invoice corrections and amendments with their suppliers through the portal. "This will also facilitate taxpayers to efficiently address invoice corrections/amendments with their records/invoices vis-a-vis issued by their suppliers for availing the correct ITC," GSTN stated.

The IMS will enable recipient taxpayers to accept, reject, or keep invoices pending within the system for future review. This feature will be accessible to taxpayers starting October 1 on the GST portal.

According to Rajat Mohan, Executive Director, MOORE Singhi, in the short term, this advisory could pose a considerable challenge for software companies, which will need to realign their processes to integrate with the new system. The transition may be complex, but it is necessary to adapt to the evolving regulatory environment.

"By maintaining a detailed record of all actions taken on each invoice, the Integrated Management System (IMS) creates a robust audit trail that is invaluable during GST audits. This feature provides tax authorities with clear evidence of the recipient's due diligence in managing ITC claims, potentially simplifying the scrutiny process," Mohan added.

Additionally, the IMS could pave the way for future automation and AI integration, such as AI-driven predictive analysis for ITC claims, automated dispute resolution for invoice discrepancies, and enhanced fraud detection mechanisms.

To implement this advisory, both state and central governments will need to amend and reissue the relevant tax rules and forms within their statutory frameworks,

Raymond arm eyes 7% men wed-wear mkt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

Eyeing 15% CAGR, says Gautam Singhania

Lifestyle business arm of Raymond Group is eyeing a 15% compounded annual growth rate to attain about 7% market share in the fast growing men's-wear wedding market by 2027, said Gautam Singhania, group chairman and MD

RAYMOND Lifestyle, which claims to be largest integrated manufacturer of worsted suiting in the country offering comprehensive products for fabric and garmenting, has charted out a massive expansion plan adding 900 new outlets over the next three years and has set a target of cornering 7% of the male wedding wear market.

The lifestyle business arm of the century-old Raymond Group is also eyeing a 15% compounded annual growth rate to attain about 7% market share in the fast growing men's-wear wedding market by 2027, Gautam Singhania, the group chairman and managing director, told reporters here Tuesday.

He said the company will be listed on the bourses on September 5, following the demerger of its retail and lifestyle businesses announced last year. With this listing Raymond will have two listed entities.

Raymond is the largest brand in the men's-wedding wear brand in India, estimated at about ₹75,000 crore.

Of this, Raymond Lifestyle had a revenue share of ₹2,550 crore in FY24, includes its wedding and ceremonial attire and Ethnix offering, Singhania said.

The demerger aims at unlocking shareholder value by creating a focused lifestyle business entity. Raymond Lifestyle will sharpen strategic focus in this fast-growing sector to become among the top three global fabric suppliers by the end of this year.

Raymond Lifestyle will be listed on Friday.

AI push: 73 Strings to double headcount at Bengaluru centre

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE
@ Bengaluru

PRIVATE capital industry valuation solutions major 73 Strings is bullish on driving innovation in AI to serve its clientele, for which it eyes leveraging Bengaluru's IT talent pool. The company, which operates a tech centre here with a team of 200 engineers advancing its AI capabilities, now plans to double headcount in a couple of years.

Speaking to TNIE, 73 Strings Co-Founder and Deputy CEO Abhishek Pandey said, "India is essentially an engineering base, where our cofounding CTO and CPO are based. We have a sizable AI, platform (full stack developers), and product teams here. We now plan to double this engineering base in the next 2-3 years, covering a gamut of specialisations – AI, full stack, devops, cybersecurity, etc. We are actively hiring now in many areas, with a particular focus on AI."

73 Strings serves large multi-strategy alternative investment firms globally, spanning North America, Europe, and the Middle East. Notable clients include some of the world's leading asset managers, including Blackstone and one of the largest Sovereign Wealth Funds.

The company's technology looks to provide seamless, automated, accurate and auditable solutions to its clients. "The best way to characterise how we operate is through an example, Blackstone invests into portfolio companies – equity or credit. Once an investment is done, what Blackstone has to do is ensure that the company is performing the way it was supposed to; it collects data points, and feeds them into a system to compare with information based on the original forecast. Last but not the least, it must report to investors the value of investment. This must be done each month or quarter," 73 Strings Co-Founder and CEO Yann Magnan explained.

"Our solution comes in after an investment has been made into a company, especially in the data collection and reporting stage. Before we entered the scene, all this was done manually on spreadsheets, prone to error. Our solution brings efficiency and a framework that makes the entire process much more secure," he said.

AI aids in the gathering of right information, processing it and deriving the value of investments with efficiency. "Our level of automation helps increase scale, because the private market could outgrow the public market, based on the sheer number of assets. Our software helps capture information from portfolio companies, which can be sent in any format, and our AI extracts and structures it in a manner that is useful for funds to easily manage, while automatically creating valuation analytics, and reporting back to the investors, pension funds, insurers, HNIs, etc.," Pandey said.

"When our software gets implemented, it covers the entire portfolio. As long as the fund exists, we exist, since the information needs to be collected, monitored, evaluated, and reported. Our relationship is forever," he mentioned, adding that the clients the company serves today manage assets worth $8 trillion in total. Today, the alternative investment capital industry is valued at $20 trillion, and is expected to hit $50-100 trillion in the next 8-10 years, growing at 15-20% YoY. In terms of tapping the India market, there are discussions with two investment firms who wish to test 73 Strings' solution. "We are also expecting to get some clients here," Magnan concluded, without divulging further details.

Simplified norms for non-scheduled plane operators

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE country's civil aviation regulator Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Tuesday come out with new regulations to simplify the airworthiness requirements for light aircraft and non-scheduled plane operators as part of efforts to reduce compliance burden.

The new regulations will come into effect from January 1, 2025. Currently, there are two primary Civil Aviation Requirements (CARs) governing the continuing airworthiness of aircraft -- CAR-M and CAR-145. CAR-M covers the continuing airworthiness of all aircraft types, including those used for scheduled operations, non-scheduled operations, flying training, general aviation, and private operations. CAR-145 specifies regulations for the maintenance of aircraft used in commercial operations and complex motor aircraft.

Cafe Coffee Day's presence falls to 141 cities, outlets drop to 450 in FY24

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

COFFEE Day Global's cafe chain brand Cafe Coffee Day's (CCD) number of outlets as well as its presence in cities have come down from 495 cafes in 158 cities in FY22 to 450 cafes in 141 cities. However, its number of operational vending machines has increased from 38,810 to 52,581 in the corresponding period. These vending machines dispense coffee in corporate workplaces and hotels under the brand.

As per Coffee Day Enterprises Limited's (CDEL) latest annual report filed on Tuesday, 95% of the consolidated net revenue of the company was contributed by coffee business in FY24, followed by 4.9% from hospitality and 0.1% from other operations.

In FY24, CDEL's net loss stood at ₹323 crore and its net operational revenue was ₹1,013 crore, a 9.6% rise as against FY23. As of March 31, 2024, it has 18 subsidiaries (including step-down subsidiaries), 4 Associate companies and 3 joint ventures.

Total loan funds stood at ₹1,159 crore which comprises long-term borrowings of ₹102 crore and short-term borrowings of ₹1,057 crore and the company's net debt stood at ₹881 crore. As per the annual report, its non-current liabilities (excluding borrowings) stood at ₹178 crore, comprising lease liabilities ₹167 crore, deferred tax liabilities Rs 1 crore, and provisions amounting to Rs 10 crore.

The Bengaluru bench of NCLT on August 8 ordered initiating insolvency proceedings against CDEL as IDBI Trusteeship Services Ltd (IDBITSL) approached the corporate dispute tribunal claiming a default of ₹228.45 crore. NCLT appointed an interim resolution professional to take care of the operation. CDEL director Malvika Hegde challenged the NCLT order to initiate an insolvency process against the company, and on August 14, the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT), Chennai, stayed the insolvency proceedings against CDEL.

In the annual report, the company said it will do all acts required to safeguard the interest of all shareholders.

The Group has borrowings amounting to ₹1,289 crore as at March 31, 2024. CDEL posted EBITDA at ₹43 crore, down 31% YoY for Q1FY25 and its net loss for the June quarter stood at ₹11 crore compared to net profit of ₹21 crore in the year-ago period. Its revenue for the quarter stood at Rs 260 crore, up 5% YoY.

Lateral entry pull-out: Key govt posts to fall vacant

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

FIVE top level positions will become vacant in the in important ministries in September as the government decided to withdraw its lateral entry drive.

These positions are held by officers appointed at the joint secretary level via lateral entry process, and their tenures are set to conclude this month between September 11 and September 22. They are associated with the Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH), Ministry of Shipping, Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, and Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change.

Sources indicate the Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT) plans to fill these positions with officers who have applied for deputation. Finalising the candidates could take one-two months. The UPSC is likely to develop a new scheme for recruiting external candidates, which may include provisions for reservations. In 2018, the government announced openings for 10 joint secretary-level positions under the scheme, resulting in hiring of nine candidates, of whom eight joined. The initial tenure for these appointments is 3 years, with the possibility of a two-year extension. This month, tenure of five serving officers will come to an end.

As per a former secretary who didn't want to be named, in the government system, people with expertise in particular domains are required. It is better to have a mix of professionals who get hired from the central government services and those who are selected from the outside.

Another senior official indicated there will be some disruption in day-to-day functioning of the government until a new replacement is found. The new appointee will need time to settle in and get things running smoothly. The controversy surrounding lateral entry into the civil services began in 2018 when the government appointed 10 joint secretaries via this new process. The government argued it implemented a structured selection process via the UPSC to recruit specialists, contrasting this with the previous practice during the UPA era, where appointments were often made without formal selection criteria. They pointed to notable figures like Manmohan Singh, served as finance secretary, Montek Singh Ahluwalia and Sam Pitroda, highlighting that these appointments lacked a rigorous selection process.

Bangladesh complete historic sweep vs Pak

Bangladesh completed a six-wicket victory against Pakistan in Rawalpindi on Tuesday and achieved an historic sweep of their two-Test series. Needing 143 more runs on the final day with 10 wickets in hand, Bangladesh knocked them off for the loss of four wickets when Shakib Al Hasan hit the winning boundary.

IRONING OUT BEFORE LONG TEST SEASON

With India set to play ten Tests in the season, Duleep Trophy will give players opportunity to seal their spot in the team

GOMESH S @ Chennai

NINETEEN - that is how many capped India Test players will be in action in the opening round of Duleep Trophy that begins on Thursday. From the outset, it might seem like a random number, but nothing signifies the tournament and where the Indian Test team is at the moment like that number.

This is no exaggeration. The last time the number of India Test players in a Duleep Trophy touched double digits was in 2016 (10). Since then, it has been anywhere between three to nine over the past five seasons (there was no Duleep Trophy in 2020-21 and 2021-22 because of the COVID-19 pandemic). And there is a good reason for it. With India's mainstays predominantly playing all three formats from 2013 to 2022, they barely played any domestic cricket, especially in the longer format. At this time, Duleep Trophy, by and large, is a tournament that is seen as the next stage for Ranji cricketers and where fringe players who are still in the scheme of things try to make a comeback to the Test team. However, for the first time in a long while, the tournament will see a striking number of Indian Test players taking part in Duleep Trophy, not just with the intention of getting ready for the long Test season, but also fighting for different spots among their contemporaries. India began their transition in the longest format much before the limited overs with the infusion of Shubman Gill, Ishan Kishan, Yashavi Jaiswal - all of whom had proved their mettle in past Duleep Trophy editions - and Sarfaraz Khan, Devdutt Padikkal, Rajat Patidar, Dhruv Jurel - they got a chance earlier this year when the seniors were unavailable or dropped.

And most of them have taken to international cricket like fish to water. Gill is the anointed No. 3, Jaiswal has taken the cricketing world by storm, Khan and Jurel's nerves of steel received appreciation from the entire fraternity. Padikkal had his moment as well. And all five of them played a crucial role in India hammering England 4-1 after the loss in Hyderabad. And yet, as things stand, only Jaiswal and Gill have their place assured in the first Test against Bangladesh in Chennai. Jurel is likely to be India's first-choice keeper, but in the long run, it is not a certainty. Jurel, Padikkal, Khan, and Patidar will be competing in the Duleep Trophy not just as preparation but also with senior players like KL Rahul, Shreyas Iyer, Rishabh Pant, Ishan Kishan trying to make a comeback. That Virat Kohli will walk into the XI for Chennai means there is only one spot available for which Khan, Iyer, and Rahul will be fighting for. While Khan is the incumbent and will make the cut for the squad, he came into the picture when Rahul got injured. So it remains to be seen how that selection goes.

Iyer and Kishan, on the other hand, were out of favour and were dropped. They might take some time to come back to the Test side. Now, it all might seem batting-heavy, but there are several Test bowlers in the mix too, especially pacers. While Mohammed Shami, Mohammed Siraj and Jasprit Bumrah will make the first-choice three-man pace attack when India needs them - the three are not playing in the opening round of Duleep Trophy and Shami is expected to play the first round of Ranji - there are a pool of pacers India are looking at. Prasidh Krishna is making a comeback from injury, Akash Deep, who made his debut against England, Avesh Khan, who has had to wait for his chance, Arshdeep Singh, Harshit Rana, Vidwath Kaverappa all will be in action. Before the India tour of Australia, the selectors and team management would want to have at least ten pacers ready to take the field as and when necessary.

All things considered, not in a long time there has been this much excitement about Duleep Trophy in terms of players to look at and the context in which they are taking part.

After Oly bronze, Fulton ready for future challenges

KALYANI MANGALE @ Chennai

WHEN Craig Fulton started as the head coach of the Indian men's hockey team late in April 2023, he was equipped with everything he needed to make the squad his own. His first big assignment, the Asian Games in China, where India had the opportunity to book their direct ticket to Paris, was only four months away. Cut to the present, Fulton is almost one and a half years into his tenure with India bagging the Asian Games gold medal, winning the Asian Champions Trophy on home soil and defending their Tokyo 2020 bronze medal in Paris. Aptly, Fulton has one word to describe his time with the team: Rewarding.

"Honestly, it has been rewarding," Fulton told this daily. "We came in and didn't have a lot of time ahead of the Asian Games. We just had three to four months to select a new team and get everyone on track. We had quite a difficult time in 2024 till the Olympics because we had to face quite a lot of competitions, the same time we were still selecting our squad and trying to find our best combination. The time after (series against) Australia was difficult, but I knew we were close. It is a great reward to come out of the Games with a bronze medal," Fulton mentioned.

Heading into the Olympics, the tour of South Africa had ended with a 1-5 loss against the world no 1, Netherlands. The five-match series against Australia ended up with India suffering a 5-0 clean sweep. There were a few questions with no official fixtures till the Olympics. Once the gala started in Paris, Harampreet Singh's team had to hit the ground running. Fulton believes the first two matches in the pool stage were a blessing in disguise for his team.

"The turning point was that we had to do well in the first two games. We didn't play our best hockey, but we had to get results. I knew, if we got seven points, we would make the quarterfinals. Then that meant Game 4 against Belgium and Game 5 against Australia, we can have a free go. There was no pressure on us. In the game against Belgium, we played well. We let in two soft goals by our standard. I think we gave Belgium too much respect. After that, we went straight into the Australia game feeling we were playing well. We have to continue with the same brand, but not give away any soft goals. And we did that. Those two games were the catalyst," said Fulton, highlighting the importance of starting well.

Coach Craig Fulton

Then, the infamous game against Great Britain came along and India had to implement coach Fulton's tried and tested method of 'defend to win' once defender Amit Rohidas was shown a red card in the first quarter. Fulton believes that the match was once in a lifetime experience for everyone involved and he was exceptionally happy with how his team responded on the go.

However, the semifinal game against Germany put every possible obstacle in Fulton and company's way. Courageous efforts in the final few minutes of the game were not enough for India to make it to the final and fight for the gold medal. Fulton's message was clear: No matter what, we are winning our final game in the Olympics. "(Semifinal) That's the Olympics. It is so tough. It could have gone either way even in the final seconds of the game. The debrief of that game was more factual. We agreed that we were going to win our last game. If we had won the semifinal, we wanted to win our last game, if we lost the semifinal, we wanted to win our last game. That was made clear beforehand. Otherwise, you end up going over a cliff and you are too worried about what happens in the semifinal. So that was clear. No emotions, just facts. We had a good plan and the boys executed it well to get that reward." The plan was clear and in came the bronze medal.

When asked where this medal ranks for him, Fulton chuckled before admitting it was special. "It is up there. It is one of my favourite moments. To win a medal and see the team on the podium, it is satisfying."

With the Asian Champions Trophy coming in, the coach has his job cut out for him. And like the past, he will expect his team to deliver yet again.

Sony Sports Network is the official broadcaster for the Hero Asian Champions Trophy. Watch the matches Live on Sony Sports TEN 1 SD & HD from September 8 to 17.

Sinner & Medvedev set up Q/F clash

AGENCIES @ New York

WORLD number one Jannik Sinner and former champion Daniil Medvedev set up a US Open quarter-final showdown on Monday as both men look to exploit the hole left by the shock exits of Novak Djokovic and Carlos Alcaraz. Australian Open champion Sinner made the last eight for the second time by seeing off US 14th seed Tommy Paul 7-6 (7/3), 7-6 (7/5), 6-1. Medvedev, the 2021 champion and runner-up of last year, outclassed Portugal's Nuno Borges 6-0, 6-1, 6-3 to reach the quarter-finals. Women's world number one Iga Swiatek, meanwhile, stayed on course for a sixth Grand Slam title with a straight-sets win over Russia's Liudmila Samsonova.

The Italian Sinner recovered from 4-1 down in the first set to see off Paul, who had been hoping to join compatriots Taylor Fritz and Frances Tiafoe in the quarter-finals in New York. "It will be another tough match with Daniil. There will be a lot of rallies so I have to be ready physically," said Sinner. The world number five easily downed 34th-ranked Borges, whose challenge fizzled out under the weight of 51 unforced errors while Medvedev broke serve eight times. Sinner and Medvedev will be meeting for the fourth time this year. "I will try to think more about Wimbledon than the Australian Open," said Medvedev. "With Jannik, I feel like we know our games, what we will try to bring to the table, and then it comes to always this moment's deuce, breakpoint, maybe try to surprise him or not, what he will do, what I will do."

Jannik Sinner of Italy returns a shot against Tommy Paul of the United States | AFP

Selected result (Rd 4) Men: Jannik Sinner bt Tommy Paul 7-6 (7/3), 7-6 (7/5), 6-1, Daniil Medvedev bt Nuno Borges 6-0, 6-1, 6-3, Alex De Minaur bt Jordan Thompson 6-0, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5. Women: Iga Swiatek bt Liudmila Samsonova 6-4, 6-1, Beatriz Haddad Maia bt Caroline Wozniacki 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, (QF) Emma Navarro bt Paula Badosa 6-2, 7-5.

Jack Draper became the first British man since Andy Murray in 2016 to reach the quarter-finals by seeing off Tomas Machac of the Czech Republic 6-3, 6-1, 6-2. The 22-year-old left-hander has only dropped serve once over four matches on his way to a maiden Slam quarter-final, winning 47 of 48 service games and saving 20 of 21 break points. The 10th-seeded De Minaur won an all-Australian battle with Jordan Thompson 6-0, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5. On Tuesday, Emma Navarro reached her first Grand Slam semi-final with a straight-sets victory over Paula Badosa whose challenge dramatically collapsed. The 13th-ranked American, triumphed 6-2, 7-5 after trailing 5-1 in the second set.

Rachin gets ready for subcontinental test

GOMESH S @ Chennai

WHEN Rachin Ravindra received his New Zealand Test cap in Kanpur three years ago, he was a spinning all-rounder. In that Test against India, the then 21-year-old batted in the lower-order, sent down 40 overs and held his own with the bat, alongside Ajaz Patel for the tenth wicket, to eke out a fighting draw.

Cut to present, he is the Black Caps' Test No. 4, a mainstay in the ODI team, an IPL star with the Chennai Super Kings and one of the rising youngsters in the cricketing world. And Rachin is back in India, at the Super Kings Academy in Chennai, preparing for what is a long subcontinental test for him and New Zealand. Over the next month and a half, the Black Caps will play a Test against Afghanistan in Noida (from September 9), two more in Sri Lanka before coming back to India for a three-match Test series in October.

Rachin, along with his compatriot and pacer Ben Sears, is at the Super Kings high performance centre in Chennai. Working with them is Super Kings academy coach Sriram Krishnamurthy, who knows both Rachin and Sears from their early years. Aware of the challenge the next month and a half poses, Rachin is working on the things he needs to adjust and adapt. "It is a completely different challenge," he says on the sidelines of a training session on Tuesday. "When you look at the way the guys from the subcontinent bat, the way they hold their shape for longer in the lower positions they get into, I think as cricketers from the western side of the world, we're still trying to incorporate that into our spin games. It's about having an open mind to all that and stuff, but it's also still important for us to remember what we do well as a team and players. It's about being able to take bits from the experiences we've had and ultimately back ourselves and trust our plan."

While Rachin has been working on his batting, Sears is trying to get the lines and lengths right for the subcontinent. The tearaway pacer broke into the international scene in 2021 and has just played one Test so far. He has toured Bangladesh and Pakistan for white-ball series but this will be his first time in the subcontinent for the longest format. "It is going to be a new experience, came a little bit early, trying a few things out, just getting used to the conditions. Obviously, the ball doesn't swing as long as it does in New Zealand. You have to try and bring the stumps in a lot more and stuff like that. Hopefully, just try and make the minor adjustments, yeah," Sears said.

Before coming to India, Rachin and Sears were a part of two New Zealand camps in Mount Maunganui, Tauranga and another camp in Christchurch and Lincoln. The rest test, however, begins next Monday when they take the field against Afghanistan in Noida for the one-0ff Test.

Pro Kabaddi League Season 11 from Oct 18

MUMBAI: The 11th season of the Pro Kabaddi League will start from October 18, the organisers said. The event will start in Hyderabad before moving to Noida on November 10 & Pune on December 3. "After successfully completing 10 seasons, Season 11 will mark a new milestone in the continued rise of the league," said PKL League Commissioner, Anupam Goswami.

Ratra named BCCI North Zone selector

NEW DELHI: The Indian cricket board (BCCI) on Tuesday appointed former India wicket-keeper Ajay Ratra as a selector of the men's cricket team, replacing Salil Ankola in the five-man panel. As per convention, all five selectors represent different zones and former India keeper Ratra will represent North Zone in the committee headed by Ajit Agarkar.

WTC Final at Lord's from June 11-15, 2025

DUBAI: The third World Test Championship (WTC) final will be played at the Lord's between June 11 and 15, 2025, announced the International Cricket Council on Tuesday. The ICC has marked June 16 as the reserve day, if required. The Lord's is hosting the WTC final for the first time as Southampton (2021) and the Oval (2023) were the venues for the two previous title matches.

Paralympics: Jeevanji wins bronze in 400m

AGENCIES @ Paris

INDIA'S Deepthi Jeevanji won bronze in women's 400m T20 category in Paris Paralympics, clocking 55.82 seconds. Meanwhile, Bhagyashri Jadhav finished fifth in the women's shot put (F34). Jadhav, making her second appearance at the Paralympics, produced a throw of 7.28m but it was not enough for a podium finish. China's Lijuan Zou won the gold with a season best of 9.14m while Poland's Lucyna Kornobys secured the silver with an effort of 8.33m.

Shooter Avani Lekhara missed out on a second medal at the ongoing Paralympic Games and finished fifth after putting up a strong fight in the final of the women's 50m rifle 3 positions SH1 competition. The 22-year-old Avani, paralysed waist-down owing to a car accident she suffered as an 11-year-old, shot a total of 420.6 across the three stages of kneeling, prone and standing in a world-class eight-woman field. She led the final briefly but slipped to sixth place at the end of the prone stage, which is not her strong area as it causes her problems owing to positioning. The Indian ace was doing well in the standing stage, her strong suit, but then an unexpected 8.3 did not help her cause.

Meanwhile, archer Pooja Jatyan slipped from a two-set lead to go down to heavyweight Wu Chunyan of China 4-6 in the women's recurve open quarterfinals.

ROLE MODEL

Would love to inspire the younger generation: Zhang

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

WHEN she was eight, Lily Zhang often used their dinky dining table at home as a make-believe table tennis table to play the sport. At 18, Zhang, the daughter of Chinese immigrants, was so done with the sport she wanted to quit. At 28, by a lot of metrics, she's the most accomplished table tennis player to emerge from the US over the last four decades. She has featured in four Olympics. She made it to the pre-quarterfinals in Paris, a feat many of her compatriots haven't even come close to achieving. In 2021, she became the first American to win a Worlds medal (as part of a mixed team) in 62 years.

After her Paris exertions and all that it entailed, Zhang, who loves eating garlic naan and gulab jamun, is at a crossroads. Does she stick or twist? The prospect of the home Olympics in 2028 is a nice light at the end of the tunnel — "table tennis is a sport that doesn't have much exposure or government funding in the US," she tells in an interaction with this daily — but she's inspired by something greater. The idea of being a role model to future generations, to be able to tell kids that it's possible to become something in the sport even considering the inherent advantages of pursuing it in the US.

"It's so important to be especially because I didn't really that growing up... my plan was to quit (the sport) as soon as I went to college," she says on the sidelines of the Ultimate Table Tennis (UTT) event in Chennai. "Most people just quit when they reach college. That was my plan as well and I didn't expect to be here at all. I can tell you that I was so done with the sport when I was 18. I feel like after I graduated (psychology from Berkeley), there was something missing. I really missed the sport and so, that's why I came back to it. I want the younger generation to be able to see a possibility...

Lily Zhang of the USA plays for Bengaluru Smashers in the league | UTT

"Trying to pave a path for the younger generation. (You know) try and work things out if that's what they really love to do they should be able to follow their dreams."

While playing the sport wasn't, strictly speaking, a young Zhang's dream, it's the sport 'that spoke to me personally'. "I was involved in a lot of other outside activities as well but the sport was something that spoke to me personally. I would play every weekend at a local community centre and that was the one thing I looked forward to the most. I think I naturally gravitated to the sport but never in wildest dreams did I expect to reach this level."

Around the Tokyo Games, she went back to the image of a kid — herself — playing the sport in their apartment in Palo Alto, California. It kind of helped her put things in perspective as she kind of fell into the trap of 'associating my own self worth with how I was playing so I don't think that was very helpful for me'. "What I try to do now is think about the little girl who started playing table tennis in that dinky little dining table/table tennis table and she loved to play."

While being the best in an Olympic sport from a population of over 300mn is grand, she has to juggle a professional career with the sometimes disapproving eyes of her parents. Make no mistake, they support her wholeheartedly but sometimes they fit the stereotype of typical Asian parents. "I think it's a complex situation because they are immigrants. I think they want a better life for me. In their eyes, it's having a stable income, stable job and they know how hard the sport is. End of the day, they do support me and want me to be happy."

Right now, she's very happy.

Science is just pure empiricism, and by virtue of its method, it excludes metaphysics — Steve Martin

FEMALE OR MALE?
According to the National Library of Medicine, during early development, the gonads of the foetus remain undifferentiated; that is, all foetal genitalia are the same and are phenotypically female. After approximately 6-7 weeks of gestation, however, the expression of a gene on the Y chromosome induces changes that result in the development of the testes. Meanwhile, research in human evolution, development and genetics is an ongoing exercise.

HUMAN EMBRYO DEVELOPMENT
Coming in Pairs
Chromosomes come in pairs. Normally, each cell in the human body has 23 pairs of chromosomes (46 in total). Half come from the mother; the other half from the father
Two of the chromosomes (X and Y) are called sex chromosomes, and in almost all people:
FEMALES HAVE 2 X CHROMOSOMES
MALES HAVE 1 X AND 1 Y CHROMOSOME
During conception, the mother gives an X chromosome to the child, and the father may contribute an X or a Y. The chromosome from the father determines if the baby is female or male
In most cases, a child is born as a male or female according to their chromosomes. However, children with differences of sex development may be born with genitalia not matching their chromosomes, or they may have fewer or more than 46 chromosomes. Such conditions could hamper sexual development
HOW 'X' OUTGREW 'Y'
The human X chromosome is believed to have evolved around 300-400 million years ago, during the Paleozoic or Mesozoic era. However, its evolution has passed through several stages:
1 Ancient sex chromosomes: The earliest sex chromosomes likely emerged over 1 billion years ago, in single-celled organisms. These primitive sex chromosomes were probably similar in size and gene content
2 Differentiation: Around 600-700 million years ago, the sex chromosomes began to differentiate in size and gene content, leading to the emergence of distinct X and Y chromosomes
3 Gene acquisition: The X chromosome acquired more genes, becoming larger and more gene-dense. This may have been driven by the need for additional genes to support the development of complex organisms
4 Gene loss on Y: The Y chromosome, on the other hand, lost genes over time, becoming smaller and less gene-dense. This may have been due to the lack of recombination with other chromosomes, leading to genetic decay
5 Modern X chromosome: By around 300-400 million years ago, the X chromosome had evolved with a distinct set of genes and a larger size compared to the Y chromosome

WHERE IS THE 'Y'

THE 'Y' CHROMOSOME, ESSENTIAL FOR MALE SEX DETERMINATION, HAS BEEN SLOWLY DEGENERATING, AND MAY DISAPPEAR IN A LITTLE OVER 10 MILLION YEARS, SAY SCIENTISTS. BUT THERE IS HOPE IN GENETICS

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

WILL men disappear from the face of the Earth? Modern man has been around for at least 300,000 years. According to fossil records, Homo sapiens sapiens evolved in Africa after early humans split from their great ape lineage 6-7 million years ago. Life was already in full bloom when the first organism remotely linked to us, who we may consider as our first ancestor, was taking shape on Earth. When life on Earth began to evolve ~3.8 billion years ago, just ~750 million years after the planet was born, nature had already established a working biosphere, with distinct ecosystems and processes, in sync with prevailing circumstances, for perennial evolution. What began with single-celled organisms, made for more complex creations, including an abundance of flora and fauna over millions of years that adapted and thrived, while those that did not, perished. It was in this setting that nature developed conditions for human beings to evolve.

Like most fellow organisms, sexual reproduction has played a 'seminal' role for the natural progression of the human species, and sex chromosomes have been integral in determining the sex of developing foetuses. A chromosome is defined as a package of DNA (Deoxyribonucleic Acid – the molecule that carries genetic information for the development and functioning of an organism), with part or all of the genetic material of an organism.

Accordingly, the sex chromosomes are essential to determine an individual's sex, and is a crucial element in the reproductive process. Specifically, this happens through the XY sex-determination system, which is widely applied to classify a range of mammals, including humans, apart from other organisms such as insects (eg. drosophila), snakes, fish (eg. guppies), and also some plants (eg. Ginkgo tree).

Disappearing 'Y' chromosome

A combination of 'X' and 'Y' chromosomes determines an individual's sex. Females have two 'X' chromosomes, while males have one 'X' and one 'Y' chromosome. These sex chromosomes contain genes that govern the inheritance of sex-linked and sex-limited characteristics of a human.

Typically, the two of the same kind of sex chromosome (XX) in females are called the homogametic sex. Males have two different kinds of sex chromosomes (XY), and are called the heterogametic sex. In humans, the presence of the Y chromosome is responsible for triggering male development. While the Y chromosome is much smaller than the X chromosome in terms of the genes it holds – only 55, compared with 900, respectively – it is vital to trigger the develop the testis in an embryo. The embryonic testis produces male hormones (testosterone and its derivatives), which ensure the baby develops as a boy. This happens around 12 weeks after conception, when the master gene of the Y chromosome – SRY (Sex Region of the Y) – activates a genetic pathway, enabling male reproductive organs to form. Interestingly, in the absence of the Y chromosome, the foetus will undergo female development.

This disequilibrium of gene dosage between X and Y chromosomes poses challenges. "Most mammals have an X and Y chromosome similar to ours; an X with lots of genes, and a Y with SRY plus a few others. This system comes with problems because of the unequal dosage of X genes in males and females," suggests Australia's La Trobe University.

The university has explained this system through the study of one its nation's native mammals. "The surprising finding is that the platypus has completely different sex chromosomes, more like those of birds. In the monotreme, the XY pair is just an ordinary chromosome, with two equal members. This suggests the mammal X and Y were an ordinary pair of chromosomes not that long ago. In turn, this must mean the Y chromosome has lost 900-55 active genes over the 166 million years that humans and platypuses have been evolving separately. That's a loss of about five genes per million years. At this rate, the last 55 genes will be gone in 11 million years," it says.

Accordingly, biologists have theorised that the Y chromosome is on the verge of disappearing, perhaps in the next millions of years. The complete disappearance of this chromosome would mean the end of male offspring in future. Simply put, the demise of the Y chromosome would mean there is no way that males can be conceived again, and with no males, the reproductive process would come to a halt, theoretically resulting in the extinction of the human species.

According to Jennifer A Marshall Graves, Professor of Genetics and Vice Chancellor's Fellow at La Trobe University, the human Y chromosome is running out of time. In the last 300 million years, it has lost 1,393 of its original 1,438 genes, galloping towards losing the last 45 in a mere 10 million years.

New gene finding

There is hope, however, in a new gene. A paper in Proceedings of the National Academy of Science shows how Japan's spiny rat has evolved a new male-determining gene. The Y chromosome, and SRY, have completely disappeared in the rodents, while the X chromosome remains, in a single or double dose in both sexes.

A team led by Hokkaido University biologist Asato Kuroiwa has discovered most of the genes on the Y of spiny rats had been relocated to other chromosomes. But there was no sign of SRY, nor the gene that substitutes for it. They also discovered a tiny difference near the key sex gene 'SOX9', on chromosome 3 of the rat. A small duplication (only 17,000 base pairs out of more than 3 billion) was present in all males, but not females.

They suggest that this small bit of duplicated DNA contains the switch that normally turns on SOX9 in response to SRY. When they introduced this find into mice, it boosted SOX9 activity, so the change could allow the new sex gene to function without SRY.

The new find supports the possibility that humans can evolve a new sex determining gene. However, this could lead to massive evolutionary changes potentially resulting in the emergence of multiple sex-determination systems in different human populations, leading to the formation of new species. We are, however, talking millions of years, and scientific research moves much faster, so there's a lot of time. ACCESSIBLE TECH

MONITORING BIOMARKERS AT YOUR FINGERTIPS, LITERALLY

You'd never have imagined monitoring your health would be so easy, actually on the go, without you having to do anything — in fact, with details literally at your fingertips. University of California San Diego researchers have developed an electronic finger wrap to monitor vital body chemical levels, like glucose, vitamins and even drugs, present in the same fingertip sweat from which it derives its energy. Each fingertip is packed with over a thousand sweat glands. These can produce 100-1,000 times more sweat than most other parts of the body even during rest. This constant trickle of natural perspiration offers a reliable energy source, fueling the device even during periods of inactivity or sleep. The device draws power from the fingertip's sweat. The device's crucial parts are the biofuel cells located where the device is in contact with the fingertip, and are specially engineered to collect and convert chemicals in sweat into electricity. This electricity is stored in a pair of stretchable, silver chloride-zinc batteries, which power four sensors tasked with monitoring a specific biomarker: glucose, vitamin C, lactate and levodopa, a drug used for treating Parkinson's disease. Tiny paper microfluidic channels absorb the sweat and direct it to the sensors, which analyzes biomarker levels, while continuing to draw energy from the same sweat that it is sampling. A chip processes the signals from the sensors and wirelessly transmits the data via low energy Bluetooth to a custom-designed smartphone or laptop application for the user to monitor. Its design allows it to endure repeated bending, stretching and movement as it is wrapped around the finger.

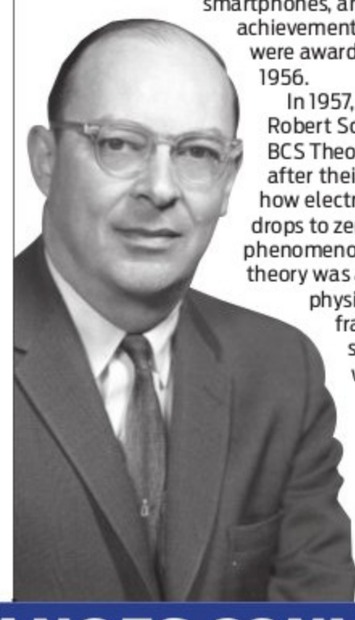
GARGI DESHPANDE

IF science has cracked the code to store terabytes of data in the form of chips and microprocessors, it is all thanks to the technology that this American physicist worked on. John Bardeen (1908–1991) is known for his groundbreaking work in solid-state physics and electronics. He is the co-inventor of the transistor, and his work on superconductivity makes him the only person to have won the Nobel Prize in Physics twice.

Born in Madison, Wisconsin, he studied electrical engineering, and later earned a PhD in physics from Princeton University. Early in his career, he worked with many research institutions. However, his most significant contribution to the field of Physics was when he was with Bell Labs and the University of Illinois. In 1947, Bardeen, along with William Shockley and Walter Brattain, invented the first transistor at Bell Labs. The transistor is a semiconductor device used to amplify or switch electronic signals, which revolutionised the entire electronics industry, and paved the way for modern computing. This invention was instrumental in the development of nearly all contemporary electronic devices, including computers, smartphones, and televisions. For this monumental achievement, Bardeen, Shockley, and Brattain were awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1956.



In 1957, along with Leon Cooper and Robert Schrieffer, Bardeen developed the BCS Theory of Superconductivity. Named after their initials, the BCS theory explains how electrical resistance in certain materials drops to zero at very low temperatures, a phenomenon known as superconductivity. This theory was a major leap in condensed matter physics, and provided a comprehensive framework for understanding how superconductors operate. Bardeen was awarded his second Nobel for this discovery, along with Cooper and Schrieffer, in 1972.

His research not only advanced our understanding of the physical world, but also had profound practical implications, influencing technology and industry.

HOW IT WORKS

RING OF FIRE: WHERE EARTHQUAKES AND VOLCANOES CONVERGE

ABHIJEET KABAD

EVERY time an earthquake strikes, it often leaves behind a trail of devastation and irreparable consequences for humans living in its zone. Ever wondered from where these originate? Around 90% of the world's earthquakes are the tectonic activity along the Pacific Ring of Fire. Not only earthquakes, but 75% of the planet's volcanoes are also located in the Ring of Fire. So, what exactly is the Ring of Fire?

The Pacific Ring of Fire, or simply Ring of Fire, stretches for around 40,000 km, along the boundaries of several tectonic plates which includes the Pacific, Juan de Fuca, Cocos, Indian-Australian, Nazca, North American, and Philippine plates. They are a string of underwater volcanoes and earthquakes around the boundaries of the Pacific Ocean. Consisting of over 450 volcanoes, it takes the shape of a horseshoe, from the southern tip of South America, all along the west coast of North America, touching the fringes of the Arctic, and then making its way along Japan, all the way down to Indonesia. More than 15 countries are pierced by this area.

The area is divided into 15-20 tectonic plates that float over molten materials existing deep inside the Earth. Boundaries existing between each of them are classified into three categories. First, the Divergent boundaries occur when two neighboring plates pass in opposite directions. They are extremely crucial as they produce new crust. The powerful East Pacific Rise pushes the massive Pacific Plate away from four of its counterparts. The northern tip of the boundary stretches into the Gulf of California, making it a part of the Ring of Fire.

The frequency in volcanoes and earthquakes along the line is because of the movement of tectonic plates in the area. At Convergent boundaries, plates overlap, which are called subduction zones. The plates that are underneath are pushed down by the plates above. As the rock gets subducted, it melts, resulting in creation of magma. The voluminous amounts of magma near the Earth's surface leads to volcanic activity. The only exception here is the border between the Pacific and North American plates. This region of the Ring of Fire is known as the Transform boundary, where the plates move sideways. This region generally creates many earthquakes, as the tension in the planet's crust builds up and gets released.

However, these earthquakes aren't always interconnected. University of California Berkeley's seismology lab found out that the epicenters of two earthquakes were 16,093 km apart! But a strong earthquake can result in weaker ones in the nearby regions.

The deepest ocean trench, called the Mariana Trench, is located in the Ring of Fire. It is a part of the larger subduction zone, containing the deepest point of any ocean, which lies 36,070 feet below sea level.

The most important fact is that the Ring of Fire could aid in creating a future new supercontinent. The Pacific might close in the next 250 million years, due to the subduction zones in the flanks. With the continents of Asia, Australia and the Americas converging, it might result in a supercontinent, similar to the landmass of Pangea. Pangea was a supercontinent, which started breaking apart around 200 million years ago. Meanwhile, geologists are of the opinion that the Atlantic or Arctic Oceans are more likely to disappear too.

HISTORY THROUGH DANCE

The production Kathas in Kathak tells stories of the dance form's rich history through vintage and contemporary choreographies

MONIKA MONALISA

IF movement is what Kathak is, then kathas (stories) are the soul. Veteran dancer-choreographer Madhu Nataraj's latest production Kathas in Kathak brings alive stories of the dance form's rich history.

The performance delves into Kathak's diverse journey across regions and eras, exploring how artistic expression has both shaped and been shaped by the socio-political contexts of its time. "Kathak comes from the word katha. It is storytelling in the form of classical dance. This is an attempt to make the connection between poetry and politics and it's coming together in Kathak," says Nataraj.

The show will also be bringing alive both vintage and contemporary choreographies. "We have strung together some vintage choreographies of the '50s from music composers who gave music to my mother's (Maya Rao) works. It also touches upon contemporary times and topics like climate change. It's a wide spectrum in terms of time. The 90-minute performance is not just a visual treat but an emotional connection," says Nataraj.

Being one of the reputed dancers in the country, uniqueness is something that Nataraj strives for. "It's about being creative and original each time because that's how the form has stood the test of time. Dance forms in India are around 2,000 years old and originated from the Natyasastra. Artistes and patrons have shared this relationship to keep the tradition going," she says.

Nataraj believes connecting with the youth is also key to keeping the traditions going. "Youngsters are quite porous and open to new experiences and ideas. It is how you present to them. This is the generation that is talking about climate action, equity, etc. So it's important to use those concepts and set the context to introduce the idea of classical dance to them," she says.

(Kathas in Kathak will be staged at Bangalore International Centre on September 5, at 7pm)

A SILVER LINING

Para-athlete Nishad Kumar, who lost his right hand in an accident at a very young age, talks about clinching the silver medal in the men's high jump T47 event at the Paris Paralympics 2024

MONIKA MONALISA

REFLECTING on his silver medal in the men's high jump T47 at the Paris Paralympics, Nishad Kumar recalls focusing on staying calm and composed just before the competition. Although aware of the expectations, he tried to 'shut all the noise in his head to focus on himself.' "I was not trying to overthink and was keeping myself calm. I was going through all that we had planned and where to take the jump. I had prepped well; at that point, I was just focusing on implementing all that I had learned from training," says Kumar, speaking to us from Paris.

The 24-year-old, who trains in Bengaluru, achieved a season-best jump of 2.04 metres, finishing behind the USA's Roderick Townsend. "I was never intimidated by anyone. I knew where I stood and was hoping for a silver. Anything more than that would have been a pleasant surprise, but I am quite happy," says Kumar, who trained in the USA under coach Jeremy Fischer, coach of Olympic medallist Will Claye, before the Paris Paralympics.

Among the long list of congratulatory messages that followed his podium finish was one from Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who took to X to hail Kumar's achievement, calling it a 'remarkable' at the ongoing Paralympics.

Kumar, originally from Badaun village near Amb in Himachal Pradesh, called his mother after clinching the medal. "They were happy and quite proud. My mother promised to make kheer when I returned home; that's my favourite dessert. Now I am looking forward to reaching home," says Kumar.

The 6-foot-4-inch para-athlete credits his success not only to his coaches but also to his mother, who never gave up on him after he lost his right hand to a freak accident in 2007 involving a fodder-cutting machine. As a young child, Kumar had always wanted to serve his country and aspired to join the Indian Army. Although that dream was cut short by the accident, it did not stop him from achieving his goal of representing the country. "It is always an honour to represent India. You become the face of the nation at that point, and that is not something small. I cherish it," says Kumar, who also won silver at the Tokyo Paralympics three years ago.

Kumar plans to stay in Paris until September 9 before returning to India for a grand welcome. "I am planning to first go to my village to meet my mother. But before that, I am looking forward to climbing the Eiffel Tower," says Kumar.

'Rap music is a raw & real form of expression'

In Bengaluru recently as part of his music tour, CE speaks to rapper and popstar KING about becoming an overnight sensation, his songwriting process, and more

RESHMI CHAKRAVORTY

INDIAN hip-hop is witnessing a seismic shift, with a new wave of artistes emerging from diverse backgrounds, bringing fresh sounds and stories to the forefront. Among these rising stars is the rapper Arpan Kumar Chandel aka King, who has captured the imagination of millions with his unique style, poignant lyrics, and a relentless drive that has propelled him to the top of the charts.

King's big break came in 2019 when he participated in the popular reality show MTV Hustle, India's first rap reality show. After his stint on the show, King released several singles and collaborations that quickly gained traction. Songs such as Tu Aake Dekhle and Maan Meri Jaan became instant hits, amassing millions of views on YouTube and streams on music platforms. We chat with the singer-rapper, who was in Bengaluru recently. Excerpts follow.

What initially drew you to rap music?
I've always looked up to rap music as a raw and real form of expression, while also being very true to itself and unorthodox in many ways. And that's what has drawn me towards the genre and my ever-growing love for it.

Who are your biggest musical influences, both within India and internationally?
Mohammed Rafi, Kishore Kumar, Manna Dey, Justin Timberlake, Timbaland, Kanye West, Elvis Presley, and AC/DC are just some of my biggest inspirations. But the list goes on.

How do you feel your music has evolved since you first started?
My music has sonically grown over the years, while also being more particular about the technical aspects. I believe that training yourself in the craft daily, and being passionate about it ultimately drives your growth, and enables you to analyse the different facets of your music a lot better. This also includes stepping into the listeners' shoes and consuming your own music as a listener as opposed to just being the creator.

Can you walk us through your songwriting process?
Writing songs has been a core way of emoting for me. It's been a deeply personal, yet empowering experience. My process primarily revolves around the emotion or attitude I'm trying to put together, which also often gets derived from the sonics of the track.

You've worked with various artistes across genres. How do you choose your collaborators?
Collaborations have been a special part of my journey; they have allowed me to sit with multiple creative minds to create art. I've been an admirer and fan of every collaborator I've had the opportunity to work with. And I believe that is what has influenced most of my decisions towards wanting to collaborate with a particular artiste/producer/songwriter.

Are there any particular sounds or genres you're experimenting with right now that your fans might not expect?
I'm a curious listener when it comes to music. So there's never any particular genre at any point that I might be indulging in specifically. But it comes down to what ends up inspiring me during a particular session or the kind of sound/genre that might wrap itself around the music I'm trying to create. Music-making always remains a very open-ended process for me.

What can your fans look forward to in the near future?
I'm currently working on a bunch of new music and some interesting projects with brands! We also have an Australia-NZ tour in November that will soon be announced.

KNOW YOUR CITY

Arun Prasad, city-based history researcher, unravels interesting facts about Bengaluru in this weekly quiz series. So it's time for you to find out how familiar you are with the city, beyond its heritage buildings, IT parks and the pub culture.

THE QUIZ WILL BE PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY

Send answers to bengalurucityexpress@gmail.com with the subject line 'Know Your City Quiz' Correct answers and names of first three respondents with right answers will be featured in CE.

1. The Bangalore Gayana Samaja is perhaps the oldest organisation in the city promoting Indian music. K Ramachandra Rao, who was then the headmaster of London Mission High School, along with his fellow music enthusiasts from the city, founded the organisation in 1905. The Samaja building was renovated and formally inaugurated in 2017. On which prominent road in the city is the Bangalore Gayana Samaja located—KR Road or JC Road?

2. Name the well-known cultural auditorium in Bengaluru that was built in memory of violin maestro T Chowdiah in 1980. The auditorium is unique in its architecture and design, modelled after a seven-stringed violin complete with strings, keys, bridge, and bow. It is managed by the Academy of Music, which was founded in 1961.

3. Name the octagonal ornamental cast iron structure erected in Cubbon Park in the early 1900s, built by Walter Macfarlane and Company, Glasgow (the same company that built the Glass House in Lalbagh), which was a hub for many musical performances in the city. The structure also hosted the finest military bands for public entertainment during the British era.

STANDING LATERAL SIDE BEND FLEXION CHAIR

This is a beginner pose usually done as part of Chair Yoga. This pose helps stretch the lateral body which helps one correct postural misalignments of the pelvic floor. It also helps lengthen the muscles of the lower side spine, and the lift of the diaphragm allows for deeper breathing without any extra effort. The Lateral Side Bend is a safe stretch to be included for students who are under rehab after a herniated disc, provided the same is practised under the supervision of a yoga expert. This uses props to make the pose accessible for students who may not have the needed strength or balance.

STEPS

- Stand in Tadasana Variation Feet Hip Wide (Mountain Pose Variation Feet Hip Wide) alongside a chair, maintaining one-arm distance with the chair.
- Place your right hand on the chair. Extend the other arm at shoulder level.
- Inhale, extend the left arm to the ceiling, stretching all the fingers.
- Exhale, press the chair away with your left hand, turning your hips to the other side. Let your body arch towards the chair.
- Keep your neck relaxed, and shoulders away from the ears.

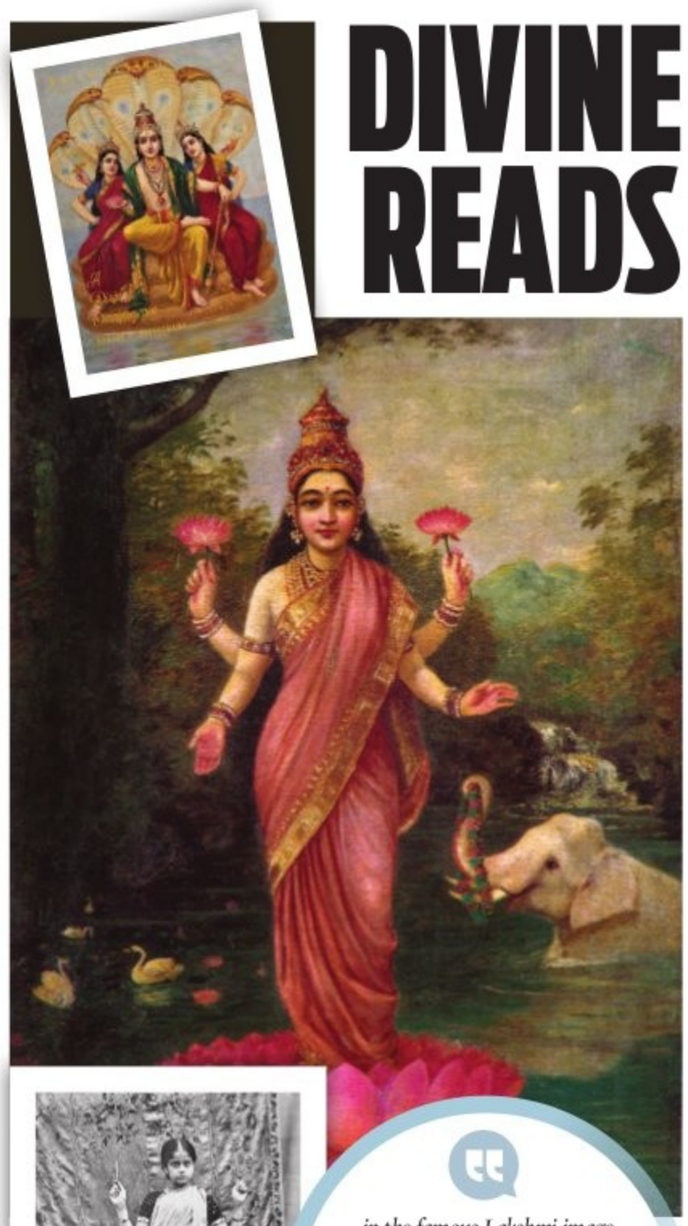
Lawyer-writer Ganesh Shivaswamy on Raja Ravi Varma: An Everlasting Imprint – A Divine Omnipresence, the third in his six-volume series exploring the social, religious, and aesthetic impact of the Ravi Varma Press

DIVINE READS



...in the famous Lakshmi image, for the first time, you can see the girl who posed for Raja Ravi Varma in a photograph...We've always worshipped the goddess, but now we can see the girl behind the image

Ganesh Shivaswamy, lawyer-writer

POOJA DAS

IN one way or another, the divine imagery of Hindu gods and goddesses subtly permeates our daily lives, often without us even realising it. Long before television and films began portraying these deities, iconic visuals such as the Goddess Lakshmi standing on a lotus or the fierce manifestation of Kali had already been imprinted in our minds, even if one is not particularly religious or a connoisseur of such art. Tracing the origins of these lifelike depictions leads us to Raja Ravi Varma, one of India's most iconic artists, who revolutionised the portrayal of gods and goddesses by humanising these ethereal beings, paying meticulous attention to every detail–from fabrics, hairstyles to jewellery and furnishings.

Lawyer and writer Ganesh Shivaswamy, in his ongoing six-volume series, delves into the social, religious, and aesthetic impact of the Raja Ravi Varma Press, which played a crucial role in democratising the artist's works. The third volume, titled Raja Ravi Varma: An Everlasting Imprint – A Divine Omnipresence (₹4,500, White Falcon Publishing), was recently released in the city.

As a self-professed outsider in the art world, Shivaswamy was initially unsure about the reception his works would receive, particularly by academics who had long studied Ravi Varma. "I was concerned about how the art community would react," he admits. "But people have responded positively and appreciate an outsider's perspective."

In An Everlasting Imprint: A Divine Omnipresence, Shivaswamy turns his focus to the sacred images created by the Ravi Varma Press, which have become objects of worship in countless homes. Unlike the previous volumes, which explored the artist's creative process and the functioning of the press, this volume centres on images intended for 'darshan'–the act of seeing and being seen by the divine. "While Rama, for instance, can be part of both worship and narrative imagery, in this volume, I concentrate solely on the worship aspect. The title reflects how these images, disseminated through print, made their divine presence felt across India," explains Shivaswamy.

The book offers readers an in-depth look at the process behind these sacred images, from their initial conception to their widespread distribution. Shivaswamy's research uncovers new material that sheds light on the creation of these images, including photographs of the people who posed for Raja Ravi Varma. "For example, in the famous Lakshmi image, for the first time, you can see the girl who posed for Raja Ravi Varma in a photograph. She's holding pencils in her hand and standing there posing. We've always worshipped the goddess, but now we can see the girl behind the image," he shares.

Researching and writing this series has not been without its challenges. "The process of writing was consistent across all the volumes since the research was done in one go," says Shivaswamy. However, organising the material into thematic volumes was a daunting task, ultimately leading him to adopt an approach that allowed for a deeper exploration of the diverse impact of Ravi Varma's art.

Another challenge was gaining access to material. Shivaswamy's longstanding relationships with relevant families and collectors allowed him to present new findings that had previously been inaccessible to the public. Among the treasures he uncovered are some of the earliest chromolithographs from the Ravi Varma Press, dating back to 1894 which have never been seen before, and images from various religions, including Islamic and Protestant Christian imagery.

With three volumes published and three more in the pipeline, Shivaswamy is committed to completing his magnum opus by 2025.

The essence of a house party

THE first time I entered a club, my hair had streaks of burgundy and enough gel to light up a small village. My clothes looked like they were designed by Himesh-Hashmi. But I remember being awash with disappointment. Movies showed that the hero starts the dancing, and the rest of the club joins him. Where were my background dancers? Where were all the women who would pop in for a twirl? I remember being disappointed that the exorbitant prices mentioned were all for 30 ml. The bouncers frisked me like a visitor just arriving from Kabul. Some of the terms used, like 'stags' – were rather dehumanising.

But man is a gregarious animal. I learnt to swallow my pride and tequila at the same time, and silently danced my disappointment away. It's been more than a decade. But entering a club still gives me flashes of the disappointment I felt. Gradually, clubs began to strike me as rather strange. My visits changed from paying money for entering to being paid to perform at clubs. I began to tilt towards house parties. They were cheaper. If I was going through a crisis, I could simply count on others' generosity. If it was a BYOB party, I could make do with a quarter of inexpensive whiskey, and let others share their drinks with me. Actual conversations took place between people, and you didn't run the risk of being kicked out by a Sohail Khan clone.

When I decided to pursue my passion for writing a decade ago, I had no idea about the repercussions in store for me. The years rolled on, and my place somehow became the hub for house parties. I have learnt to curate different parties for IT employees, standup comedians, aspiring filmmakers, and childhood friends. My entire life is a flux between quitting and adopting alcohol. My house has more ashtrays than chairs. My maid deserves a Ramon Magsaysay Award for her contribution to humanity.

Like a well-written screenplay, every house party has a three-act structure. The first act is when people establish their personalities. They are all trying to assert themselves as the funniest or wisest person in the room. Quick allegiances are made, and strategic positions are changed. The second act involves the question 'You guys want to eat anything?'. This opens a Pandora's Box of options. You get to make a culinary trip around the world - from Italian pizzas to American burgers. From pad Thai noodles to french fries. Till everybody decides on biryani and orders enough to feed a modest zilla parishad. The third act of a house party is called 'Which song to play next?'. As a firm believer in democracy, I have to go around the room and play the song of choice. One person recommends a song. The others nod and smile, while silently judging the person who selected the song. When the song doesn't achieve the desired reaction, the person who recommended the song goes into a shell and begins to judge the next person choosing the song.

This goes on and on, till my YouTube algorithm looks like the feed of an eclectic alien. When I wake up the next day, my flat looks like Kurukshetra battlefield. Soldiers lie fallen on the ground, their weapons strewn all over. When maid aunty arrives, I have to hide my face in shame and pick up the fallen warriors. For the Gita says that life is a cycle of birth and death. They will all have to go back to their lives, while I clean my house for the next house party.

'EVERY ACTOR MUST WALK A TIGHTROPE'

Ankita Amar

...says Ankita Amar as she discusses her accidental journey into acting, artistic boundaries, and upcoming release Ibbani Tabbida Ileyali

A still from the film

A SHARADHAA

ANKITA Amar, a bundle of talent known for her presence on the small screen and in reality shows, is gearing up for the release of her upcoming film, Ibbani Tabbida Ileyali. Renowned for her impressive dance and singing skills, Ankita reflects on her unexpected journey into the film industry, her collaboration with director Chandrajith Belliappa, and the appreciation she received from producer Rakshit Shetty as a significant validation.

Ankita is making a mark on the silver screen, but her entry into the film industry was far from planned. "I never imagined I'd end up in films," she admits. Growing up in a household where art was revered, thanks to her parents' admiration for Dr Rajkumar, she was surrounded by a deep respect for cinematic arts. Despite her early dreams of pursuing a career in the medical field, including a potential PhD in child psychology, her path took an unexpected turn.

"At 22, I got a chance to work in a serial. My father encouraged me to explore my passions and travel, suggesting that education could always come later," she says. Taking his advice to heart, Ankita ventured into acting. "Even when I tried to say no, the world of art seemed to call my name, and I call this destiny," she reveals.

Ankita holds deep respect for artists who boldly express themselves on screen. "I admire actors who take risks and push boundaries," she explains. However, she has set her own limits as an actor. "I'm particular about the roles I choose, especially concerning the content and presentation," she shares. For her, maintaining integrity and considering the influence on younger audiences is crucial. She states that she avoids scenes with explicit language or intimate content, explaining, "I strive to uphold values, and I feel it is important."

Ankita likens her approach to acting to a deep commitment. "It's like getting married to the character," she says. For Ibbani Tabbida Ileyali, she immersed herself in the role of Anahita, even answering questions as her character would. Chandrajith provided her with a questionnaire to understand Anahita better. "I lived with her until the project was complete. It is a belief that every actor must walk a tightrope, balancing their artistic vision with the director's expectations," she adds.

Ankita's collaboration with Rakshit Shetty's production house, Paramvah Productions, was equally eye-opening. "When I first met Rakshit, he didn't know me at all. I realised that for him, cinema is what truly matters. The appreciation and acknowledgement from a distinguished filmmaker like him, who values the essence of cinema over mere appearances, was a validation for me."

As Ankita eagerly anticipates the release of Ibbani Tabbida Ileyali, she is also involved in new projects. The actor will be seen in Ajaneeah Loknath's debut production, Just Married, alongside Shine Shetty. She is also part of the Nirup Bhandari-starrer Sathya S/o Harischandra and is in talks for a couple of other projects. "I'm excited for what's next," she signs off.

'Tadviroodha is a blend of fresh and old roots'

CE FEATURES

ACTORS Suchendra Prasad and Suman Ranganath collaborate for Vinod J Raj's directorial venture Tadviroodha. The makers, who have garnered attention with the film's teaser, reveal that it is produced by Charmion Motion Pictures and also stars Vikram in a significant role. Vinod mentions that Tadviroodha will be his next project after Yashogathe. He explains, "The title Tadviroodha refers to behaving contrary to reality."

The director, who has managed the story, screenplay, cinematography, and editing, shares that the film, set in the 1990s and revolving around a murder mystery, doesn't emphasise brutality, lacks songs, and highlights its background score. The narrative centres around five main characters, including Suchendra Prasad, Suman Ranganath, and Vikram. The entire film was shot in Sakaleshpur. The film is set to release in October.

Actor Suman Ranganath commented, "As soon as the director described the story, I liked it. My role is well-defined. Since it's a suspense film, I can't reveal much about the story. I hope everyone watches our film."

Actor Suchendra Prasad describes the film as a "blend of fresh and old roots." He adds, "This is a unique film that deviates from conventional cinema techniques. The director has not imposed any standard cinematic techniques, making this film distinct."

The cast also includes Aishwarya B Shetty, Suvin Gowda, Pooja Gowda, and Abhilash in pivotal roles.

Pramod Shetty's Karikaanu Guddada Melondu Adhika Prasanga wrapped up shooting

Pramod Shetty

CE FEATURES

PRAMOD Shetty, who is overwhelmed with the audience reception to his latest film Laughing Buddha, a comedy family drama produced by Rishab Shetty Films, is gearing up for his next project. Titled Karikaanu Guddada Melondu Adhika Prasanga, this film will see Pramod, known for his roles in Ulidavaru Kandanthe, Kirik Party, Ricky, Bell Bottom, Avane Srimannarayana, Tootumadike, and Kantara, stepping into another interesting character.

The makers have recently unveiled an exciting first-look poster for the film, which is directed by Anish Sharma. The first-time director, who has previously directed short films such as Vaddaradhaka and Shabari, presents a narrative set entirely in a village. According to the makers, the story revolves around an incident that evolves from a minor mistake into a major catastrophe, capturing the essence of drama and human emotion.

Joining Pramod Shetty in this venture are actors Raghu Shivamogga, Kiran Nayak, Manjunath Hegde, KG Krishnamurthy, and Chandrakala. The film was shot in the picturesque village of Idduvani in the Shivamogga district, with the involvement of the local community in production.

The technical team includes Sumant Sharma for cinematography, Sanjeev Jagirdar for editing, and Chetan Kumar for the musical score. Produced by Chittaranjan Kashyap, Vallabh Suri, and Sunith Halgeri under their banner, the film has wrapped up shooting and is currently in the post-production phase. It is expected to announce its release date soon.

My character in Paru Parvathy shares similarities with my life

Deepika Das

CE FEATURES

DEEPIKA Das, a household name for her stint on television, is best known for her roles in hit Kannada TV shows like Nagini and the reality show Bigg Boss, as well as her appearances in a few films. After taking a brief hiatus from the film industry to focus on her personal life and marriage, Deepika is now ready to rekindle her acting career with an exciting new project.

She is set to star in the upcoming film Paru Parvathy. According to Deepika, who shared her enthusiasm for the project, "Paru Parvathy is not just a film; it's an adventurous journey that intertwines the past and present, exploring the duality of time in our lives." She adds, "The character of Payal is deeply personal to me. It reflects facets of my own life, and I find it fulfilling to bring this character to life."

In preparation for this role, Deepika has undergone a notable transformation, including a rigorous weight loss regimen and a new hairstyle, to authentically portray her character. She believes that her real-life passion for travel aligns perfectly with her character's story line.

Deepika reveals that she has travelled to around ten countries so far, and her ultimate dream is to visit all 198 nations. "The character I play in Paru Parvathy shares many similarities with my own life, particularly in her adventurous spirit and her journey across various countries," she explains.

As she prepares for her comeback, Deepika Das is also exploring new scripts and remains open to diverse roles, including those in mythological films.

Kangana Ranaut to star in Bharat Bhhagya Viddhaata

CE FEATURES

KANGANA Ranaut will be headlining the film Bharat Bhhagya Viddhaata, the makers announced on Tuesday. Written and directed by ad filmmaker Manoj Tapadia, the film is described by the makers as a "cinematic tribute to the unsung heroes" that "aims to spotlight the invaluable contributions of the working class, who work tirelessly behind the scenes."

It is the first venture of Babita Ashiwal (Eunoia Films India) and Adi Sharmaa (Floating Rocks Entertainment) as producers. "Bharat Bhhagya Viddhaata promises to resonate deeply with audiences, inspiring a sense of hope, courage, and resilience," said the makers about the film. More details about the plot and the other cast members of the film are awaited.

Meanwhile, the release date of Kangana's political drama Emergency has been postponed after it faced criticisms from Sikh groups across the country. It was earlier scheduled to be released on September 6, but wasn't passed by the Central Board of Film Certification (CBFC). The actor also has a psychological thriller with her Tanu Weds Manu co-star R Madhavan and Thalaivii director Vijay in the pipeline.
